'Give Us Oil or Else,' Nazis Warn Rumania

SUPPLY A MATTER OF LIFE AND DEATH, BUCHAREST TOLD

Germany May Be Forced to Seek 'Other Methods' Unless Flow Increases, Reich's Envoys Assert.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 26.
(Friday) — (AP) — The Swedish foreign office press department said early today that United States Minister Frederick A. Sterling has advised Americans to leave Sweden because of "German troop concentrations."

By EDWARD KENNEDY.
BUCHAREST, Jan. 25.—
(AP)—Germany and the Allies appeared heading for a showdown today in their battle over Rumania's vast petroleum resources, with Nazi envoys reported to have told the Rumanian government that it must supply more oil to the Reich.

The German envoys were said by a high authority to have declared that an increased supply of Rumanian oil is "a matter of life and death," and that Germany would be compelled "to seek other methods" if Rumania fails to ship it of her own accord.

Turkish Warning.
As this veiled threat was disclosed, the influential Turkish newspaper "Republic" predicted that the nations of the Danube and Balkan areas would go to war against Germany or Russia at the least sign of aggression by either in southeastern Europe.

"Republic's" editorial, which appeared as General Maxim Wey-gand, commander of French forces in the Near East, arrived at Ankara for conferences with Turkish leaders, added:

"We know that not only will the western democracies (France and Britain) be with us, but also the entire world."

Between Two Fires.
The German demand for additional Rumanian oil caught the Bucharest government between two fires. Only two days ago France and Britain warned her against forcing British and French companies operating in the country to produce oil for shipment to Germany.

Inasmuch as 80 per cent of the oil industry is foreign owned—chiefly by Britain, France and the United States—Rumanians say

Brother-Sister Marriage Erased by Court Ruling

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 25.—(P)— Eighteen-year-old Virginia Wil-lamson, her hands clenched tightly and her eyes fixed upon Juvenile Court Judge Wilfred Bradshaw, today heard the court declare that her marriage to Leroy Williamson, 20, "never existed" because they are brother and sister.

Only Virginia, her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wolfe, two social workers and newsmen were in the courtroom to hear Judge Bradshaw's ruling.

Leroy went to Urbana, Ill., Monday with his aunt, Mrs. Crystal Clair Harker, after Judge Bradshaw told him what the decision would be. He plans to remain there.

U-Boats Prowling Off West Indies

Lightning German Blow Against British 'Lifelines' Within American Safety Zone Feared; English Warships Making Drastic Efforts To Find Raiders.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A German submarine thrust against British "lifelines" in the West Indies—within the Pan-American neutrality zone—was predicted tonight in reliable maritime quarters.

These sources said that three Nazi U-boats, tendered by a German passenger liner, had run the British blockade, crossed the Atlantic and were now prowling in the vicinity of Trinidad (Port of Spain), a tourist resort in the British West Indies.

The plan, according to these observers, called for a lightning blow against the British and French ships carrying grain and other foods and fuel oil to England.

Trinidad is near the island of Aruba, location of a huge Standard Oil refinery off the Venezuelan coast, and near other vital oil ports and tourist pleasure spots.

Effective U-boat warfare in this area would deal a harassing blow to England and France; it is also near the sea lanes leading to the Panama canal.

British and American authorities were reported as being fully aware of at least some details of the Nazi project, and it was said that British warships have been making drastic efforts to locate the undersea raiders.

Under the described plan, the U-boats would meet several

REICH IS BUILDING GREEN DENOUNCES SUBMARINE A DAY NLRB ON BRIDGES

Nazi Undersea Warfare Will Be Increased by 'Leaps and Bounds.'

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—(P)—An excellently informed source said tonight that Germany's submarine construction program has reached the stage of one built every day.

This source said the first group of submarines built under this high pressure program now is completed.

Officers and crews will need about four weeks' practice before going on regular duty, he asserted, and thereafter submarine warfare will be increased "by leaps and bounds."

Although submarines constitute Germany's chief weapon at sea during this war, the Reich is not neglecting her surface craft.

It is understood that the Von Tirpitz and the Bismarck, 35,000-ton battleships (five are believed planned) are almost ready to be commissioned.

Placed AFL Longshore- men Under 'Alien Red,' He Angrily Charges.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(P)— Shaking his fist and denouncing the National Labor Relations Board for "bias," President William Green, of the AFL, complained today that the board had placed AFL longshoremen on the Pacific coast under the jurisdiction of an "alien Communist," Harry Bridges.

Green, a witness before the house committee investigating the board, bitterly asserted that "all the people in America" regard the CIO waterfront leader as a Communist, except Secretary of Labor Perkins and James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard Law School.

Miss Perkins dropped deportation proceedings against Bridges after Landis held hearings at the Labor Department's behest and reported he found no justification for the charge that Bridges was a Communist.

Green also shouted that the Labor Board had been guilty of "outrageous" delay in disposing of cases. Then, lowering his voice, he solemnly defended the principles of the Wagner act, and posed any "destructive" amendments.

He did, however, renew his plea for four amendments which he said were directed only at the

Hammer, Sickle—Lewis in a Pickle

In some manner as yet unexplained, John L. Lewis yesterday spoke beneath a banner of red bearing the hammer and sickle of Communist Russia. The incident occurred at the United Mine Workers' convention in Columbus, Ohio, and aroused a storm of protest. (Story on Page 9.)

BRITISH BOMBERS FLOWN OVER U. S. BY FRENCH PILOTS

Warplanes Take on Gas in South as Preparation for Atlantic Hops, Army Circles Reveal.

By JACK BEALL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Lockheed bombers bought by the British in America are being flown over American soil by foreign crews en route to Botwood, Newfoundland, thence ferried across the Atlantic ocean to be used on the western front, it was learned today in high army circles.

The trans-Atlantic flights have been going on for some time, as weather permits, and will continue until the British order of 250 has been delivered.

"Being Winked at."
Aside from the novel mode of delivery, violations of American neutrality law are being winked at. It is against the President's general neutrality proclamation to permit planes piloted by members of the armed forces of a belligerent to be flown over American soil. It is against the transfer of title section of the neutrality law to permit planes to be flown over the Canadian border with either American or foreign crews aboard.

The procedure which is now being employed to deliver Lockheed bombers to the British involves, oddly enough, French crews rather than British crews. That is ex-pllicable on the ground that the British are much more hard pressed in the air than the French at the present time and the French are relieving British aviation personnel by undertaking to make trans-Atlantic deliveries for their allies.

Carry French Crews.
Bombers as they are completed at the Burbank plant are flown away, nominally, by company pilots, but there are French crews aboard and the purpose of their being aboard is to "familiarize" themselves with the handling of the planes before embarking on the perilous trans-Atlantic flight.

Naturally, familiarization includes the actual piloting of the

RINGGOLD REPORTS FIVE BELOW ZERO; DRIVING PERILOUS

Signal Mountain Has

der 10 Feet of Snow;
Main Roads Passable.

By LEE ROGERS.

Hundreds of mountain families in extreme north Georgia counties are snowbound and have been since Tuesday morning's record-breaking snowfall.

Reports trickling into Atlanta yesterday from the larger mountain communities told of snow-drifts blocking main highways and of the utter impossibility to maneuver a vehicle over the winding mountainside roads.

Snow was three feet deep on some roads.

County welfare offices predicted no suffering from lack of food, since the families caught without means of communication live on farms where houses are kept well stocked with essentials to forestall hunger.

Fear for Those Ill.
Concern, however, was expressed over those families in which there was sickness and where it was known medical attention and drugs are vitally needed. Roads made it impossible for doctors to make their calls in the mountains and often distances were too great to trudge on foot in the snow to get medicines. Braswell Dean, of the State Department of Public Welfare, said last night.

Temperatures dropped to approximately zero yesterday morning in all the mountain counties.
Ringgold reported a reading of 5 below zero and said it dropped to minus 11 degrees on Signal mountain. The mercury dropped to zero in Trenton, in Georgia's extreme northwestern Dade county.
Other communities reported read-

Sheriff J. M. Moreland, of Catosa county, was kept busy yesterday keeping the main highway over the mountain to Chattanooga open, his daughter reported.
Transfer trucks were skidding on the icy snow and blocking roads.

University Center Called Vital Plan

Dr. Douglas Southall Freeman Describes Experiment Here as 'Most Important in United States'; Sees Salvation of Small Colleges as Result.

By RALPH MCGILL.

Dr. Douglas Southall Freeman, famed biographer of Robert E. Lee, but even more widely known as an educator, yesterday declared that Atlanta and Georgia was attempting the most important educational experiment in the United States.

Upon its success or failure, he declared, hangs the future of the small colleges and perhaps of education itself, not only in Georgia but in the entire south.

"The General Education Board," he said, "has seen fit to turn over $2,500,000 to the efforts here in Atlanta and Georgia to make what you have called a University Center, but what really is the co-ordination of educational facilities."

Colleges all over the United States have their eyes on this experiment. If it succeeds it will save hundreds of colleges in all sections of America. If it fails it means disaster for education in the south.

Dr. Freeman spoke at noon to a group of Atlantans, before his lecture on biography in the evening at the Agnes Scott chapel.

"It is not generally recognized," he said, "what is happening to the small colleges which have a definite place in our educational plan.

"Do you know that within the next decade and a half it is extremely doubtful if there will be, unless there is some unexpected change, a single unendowed educational institution existing in the south which is not state-supported in part or in whole?
Do you know that in the state of Virginia there are but two;
that in North Carolina there are but two; that in South Carolina and Mississippi there are none?"

"It is entirely possible that within the next decade and a half

CRISIS HITS JAPAN PERSONS ATTACKS AS U. S. PACT ENDS GOVERNOR'S ACTS

Empire Faces One of Gravest Situations Since Russo-Nipponese War.

By H. O. THOMPSON.

TOKYO (Friday), Jan. 26.—
(UP)—The Japanese-American commercial treaty, which has governed all basic relations between the two great Pacific ocean powers since 1911, expired today and brought one of the gravest crises that has confronted the Nipponese empire since the Russo-Japanese war.

The treaty was abrogated by President Roosevelt six months ago as part of the effort of the United States government to restrain Japanese military activities in China and protect American rights in that country.

Stony Silence.
In Washington the United States greeted with stony silence today Japanese anxiety over future commercial and political relations between the two countries, and indications were that there is no immediate intention to relieve the suspense.

No official Washington comment was forthcoming on any of the developments. It was learned, however, that many of the technical problems arising from the no-treaty phase of U. S.-Japanese commerce had not been worked out and that some time will elapse before they are. For the time being, at least, trade will go on as usual, without changes of any kind.

Beginning at 12:01 o'clock this morning, in the Japanese view, relations with the United States were on a basis of domestic and international law, and trade between the two countries, valued conservatively at around $250,- 000,000 a year, was certain to be endangered.

Was Made Clear
It was made clear, however, that the action of the United States will not alter Japan's China program or cause this country to abandon its determination to create a "new order in east Asia."
Diplomats saw a possibility.

'An Impeached Executive Is Georgia's Need,' Judge Says at Macon.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 25.—(P)—An impeached Governor is the greatest need of Georgia today, Judge Ogden Persons, of Forsyth, told the Macon Board of Realtors today.

"There is nothing Georgia needs worse today, or has needed for the last few years," he said, "than an impeached Governor."

Without identifying persons involved, the judge referred to Governor Rivers' recent act of calling out the militia to bar W. L. Miller from offices of the State Highway Board as an abuse of the legislative power.

The pardoning of officers who have been convicted of contempt of court was an abuse of the Governor's pardoning power that is crippling the courts of Georgia, the speaker said.

bayonets, you begin to feel the

Crews of city and county workmen will tackle Atlanta's thick coating of ice and snow with pneumatic hammers and special picks today, after freezing temperatures yesterday afternoon temporarily halted their efforts to dig the city out of the worst snowfall in its history.

This new attack was mapped last night as the weatherman predicted probable warmer temperatures for tomorrow and Sunday. He would not forecast how much warmer the weather would get over the week end. The mercury yesterday did not get above 19 degrees.

Temperature fell rapidly at the municipal airport and by midnight had dipped to 9 degrees from the 17-degree reading at 6 o'clock last night. From 8 o'clock until 1 o'clock this morning, a fall of a degree an hour was recorded. Airport weather bureau attaches predicted the mercury would fall to 4 or 5 degrees in the early hours of this morning.

Count on Hammers.

Both city and county officials called off the majority of their workmen yesterday afternoon because they said it was impossible to make any headway in clearing away the mass of ice and snow.
Only skeleton crews were left at

Crews from the city construction and sanitary departments will go to work this morning with approximately 15 pneumatic hammers to be obtained from the construction and water works departments. If they prove successful in breaking the hard icy crust, others will be obtained from the Georgia Power Company and other companies which use them for drilling purposes. The city plans to use them as hammers rather than as drills, however.

Picks Damaged.
Here is the way the new plan will work:

The workmen will go along the streets with the hammers, breaking the caked snow and ice into small hunks, much as they would break cement.

Chief Cates said his workmen badly damaged approximately 500 picks and hammers yesterday in trying to remove the icy coat.

As a result, he said his 250 men will take to the streets this morn-

NATION PREPARES FOR MORE ICY DIET

Fresh Cold Preserves Dixie Snows; Sub-Zero Weather Grips West.

By The Associated Press.
Fresh cold held the south's heavy snow drapes firmly in place last night while blighting, sub-zero temperatures rode the middle west, and most of the nation prepared for still more polar fare. Rich Texas citrus groves counted additional heavy losses after the heaviest frost of years bit into fruit and vegetable growth deep down into Florida.

Sub-tropical Miami huddled over inadequate heating equipment in 30-degree weather, while Tennessee braced for another night of temperatures running down to zero and slightly below.

Mississippi Ice.
The ice front on the Mississippi river moved on down to Natchez, Miss., virtually blocking all water traffic above Vicksburg, Miss. Ice conditions along the Ohio river were described as the worst in a

Agreement that Alabama coal mines may be worked six days a week to avert a threatened fuel shortage came today as that snow-covered state prepared for another night of near-zero weather. Replying to an appeal by Governor Frank Dixon, District President William Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, said mines, now worked under a five-day-week contract, could be operated six days a week "because of the extraordinary cold and the coal shortage."

City Attorney W. C. Cherry, of Nashville, Tenn., telegraphed Senator K. D. McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, to ask John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, to extend the 35-hour week in the Kentucky coal fields.

In Ohio, two persons froze to death. Roofs at an armory, a tobacco warehouse, and an airplane hanger collapsed under the impact of a 20-inch snowfall in Virginia.

Highways Clogged.
Some highways in the middle Atlantic states were clogged by fresh snows that swept across most of the nation east of the Rockies.

Shipping along the Atlantic coast from Virginia northward was hampered. Ice harried craft in Chesapeake bay. In Penobscot bay at Vinalhaven, Maine, a power boat and a schooner were driven onto treacherous ledges. Sturdy ice breakers bucked heavy floes in the Delaware.

Highway crews battled huge drifts to keep vehicular traffic moving in many communities. North Carolina highway officials estimated damage to their roads at more than $1,500,000. The deep snow slipped on ice-sheeted pavements.

The brunt of the polar weather fell on the middle west and along the eastern slopes of the Rocky mountains. At Napoleon, N. D., the mercury plummeted to 28 degrees below zero.

Chicago Basks.
At Havre, Mont. it was the same and Sheridan, Wyo., reported 30 below. Chicago basked in the comparative warmth of 1 above.

The Texas citrus loss was estimated at 30 per cent of the projected crop by growers and shippers and as high as 80 per cent of the unprotected fruit, as the lower Rio Grande valley felt the continued sting of a week-old cold wave.

Some growers, however, said

13 Women Defy Fate, Will Form Aero Club To Aid Feminine Interest in Braving Skies

Flying Ability Not Limited to One Sex, Says Young Pilot.

Fliers—good ones—haven't time to be superstitious, so 13 young Atlanta women are going to form an aero club tomorrow night.

Their purpose is to advance the feminine interest in aviation, and generally to make the advancing art more receptive for women enthusiasts.

Leaders in the movement, which is to foster cross-country hops and study under experts, are Helen Roberts, 21, of 462 Techwood drive; Boots Hoage, 26, of 1420 Peachtree street, and Mary Spears, 25, of Marietta.

All are students at municipal airport. Both Miss Hoage and Miss Roberts have solo'd, and Miss Spears expects that thrilling moment in the student's career in April.

No Difference
"There is no essential difference between men and women fliers," Miss Hoage believes. "Women perhaps, as a rule, are more nervous than men but in flying, because of the selection which already has been made, the proportion is about the same."

Miss Hoage has had two near-accidents, one due to the motor cutting out, and the other caused by the blowing out of a cylinder head.

"That motor cutout was pretty thrilling," she admits. "My instructor, Fred Sigman, and I were up about 3,500 feet and doing acrobatics. It was about five miles south of municipal airport. We were in a spin at the time."

Dives 3,000 Feet
"Fred signaled me to take the controls. So I let and he dived the ship about 3,000 feet trying to bring the motor back. It didn't work, so he leveled off and landed in a field. Nothing happened—we were able to crank off and go on our way without incident."

The club already has been given quarters at the airport. It will complete organization at the meeting which is to be held at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Hugh Caffey, 248 Seneca street, Decatur.

They feared their loss would be total. Extent of the damage, however, can not be determined until the cold spell is dissipated.

Many growers were rushing their frozen fruit to the valley's 40 canning plants in the wake of word from government experiment station workers that the juice from this fruit could be canned if no time was lost.

Snow and Rain.
Snow and rain mingled in parts of Texas. The panhandle was enveloped in temperatures of 10 or below, and at Laredo, in the winter garden area, sleet accompanied the eighth consecutive day of sub-freezing weather.

Citizens at Montgomery, Ala., both sun and snow in a winter's caprice. A flurry of snow was dispersed by a smiling sun that lured the mercury to 28, the highest it had been.

Forecasters said it took approximately 10 inches of snow to correspond with an inch of rainfall and minimized southern flood threats from melting snow.

ing with picks especially designed for the work. He called in his men about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

"We were just not equipped with the right tools yesterday," Cates said. "I think we will be able to make more progress with the new tools."

The county kept 50 men and six scrapes at work yesterday clearing main roads into the city. A. A. Clark, superintendent of public works, said 500 men would be put to work as soon as the mercury rises enough to permit work. Their first assignment, he said, would be to clear roads leading to schools.

Snow Freezes.
Chief Cates kept a crew of approximately 50 men at work last night, and B. H. Wall in charge of the clean-up work for the city construction department, kept a like number ready for emergencies.

It was necessary to stop the work, Cates said, because the snow partly thawed and then froze into ice, making it impossible for the men to work with any speed.

Georgia Power Company officials said all streetcar lines were clear and operating, but they kept 120 regular men and 70 extra men working in double shifts with picks and shovels. The crews are working from 18 to 24 hours per day. A few snow scrapes are being used on the bus lines.

No More Snow.
While the city and county made plans to go forward with the "digging-out" work, Forecaster George W. Minding said he saw no more snow in sight, and added

'Hobo' Proves His Mettle; Money for Fine Is Repaid

There have been many hoboes in Georgia, but none more honest, perhaps, than the young man from Boston who, after more than a year has paid back the $35 which was loaned him to pay a fine for vagrancy.

He was away from home for the first time, nearing the end of the journey to Alabama, where a job was waiting for him. But in north Georgia, according to the story told yesterday at the Travelers' Aid Society, he was yanked off the train one night and carted to jail for hobnobbing.

Brought to trial, he was convicted on a vagrancy charge and sentenced to serve six months on the chain gang or pay a fine. Paying the fine was impossible, for he had but a few cents with him.

The young man was released on payment of the fine by the Legal Aid Society to which his case was referred by the Travelers' Aid. He was sent on to his job in Alabama and now, after many months, he has paid his debt to the Atlanta agency.

RAIL MERGER SPONSOR NAMED AGAIN TO ICC
WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(P)—Carroll Miller, advocate of broad consolidations of railroads, received from President Roosevelt today a seven-year reappointment as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A native of Richmond, Va., and a legal resident of Pittsburgh, Pa., Miller was nominated for a term ending December 31, 1946. He first was appointed by President Roosevelt on June 13, 1933.

Miller often has urged consolidation of the nation's railroads into a single system or a few large systems.

ed as though it belonged to one individual and not to you of Georgia," he commented.

"The Governor should be the servant of the people rather than the boss. The budget bill that was passed several years ago gave the Governor responsibility of seeing that the appropriations made by the legislature were carried out, not that they be diverted to other purposes."

Hints of Danger.
The judge hinted of the danger of dictatorship and urged that citizens exert their right to govern themselves.

"If we do not have a good Governor it is the fault of the people. . . . More attention to the affairs of the state and less to our own selfish interests is all we need give to get the kind of government we need."

Plane Flights Canceled.
It was announced yesterday that Washington Seminary also would be closed until Monday.

Several plane schedules were canceled yesterday because of ground conditions at airports in the west. Trains and buses were running slightly late.

The demand for firewood was great. The price of wood jumped from $3 to $15 a cord at some places. Lines of customers were forming in the yards.

Officials of the Fulton County Department of Public Welfare announced that anyone wishing to furnish coal to needy families could call the welfare office at 160 Pryor street, M.A. 3215, or the Randall Coal Company, W.A. 4711.

They pointed out that the severe weather had caused the department to overspend for relief purposes and that a long list of applications for fuel and other needs are on hand but cannot be met because of insufficient funds.

THREE-FOOT DRIFTS ISOLATE FARMERS

This highway was the only one open. Officials in Clayton, Blue Ridge, Blairsville, Hiawassee, Trenton and other towns said main highways were open to one-way traffic but it was dangerous going over the mountains where one skid might mean instant death in some mountain cut.

Schools are closed in all the mountain communities. It was problematical when they would reopen.

Mail routes for the most part are closed. Deliveries were made on some routes where the snow was not too deep.

Sheriff H. C. Collins said a high wind Wednesday night blew the snow up in drifts, blocking main highways and blocking some families around the Blue Ridge lake in their houses. He said all farmers could reach town by walking if they so desired but that no wheeled vehicle could move in the snow on the side roads.

"Lots of the men went hunting for rabbits, but they didn't get any," the sheriff said. "I don't think a rabbit has moved from his bed up here since it snowed."

Commissioner of Public Safety Lon Sullivan, in Atlanta, said the state patrol had reported no fatalities on any Georgia highways since the snow storm.

She estimated nearly 100 families probably were unable to leave their houses because of the deep snow. They would have sufficient food, though, she thought.

Side Roads Blocked
Chief of Police Mart Hollifield, of Clayton, said the main highway down to Cornelia and up to Franklin, N. C., had been scraped, but that side roads were impassable.

"Some of the farmers will be snowed in until next week," he predicted. "You can't move a car on these narrow dirt roads through the mountains."

Traffic from Macon, Augusta and Columbus northward received warning from Commissioner Sullivan yesterday that the roads were getting more dangerous instead of safer. As the snow freezes they are becoming icy and increasingly slick, he said.

"If one feels he must travel in this weather he should take care not to proceed at more than 25 miles per hour," Sullivan said. "The main highways are open, but on many of them there is but one set of ruts and the ice is slick when a motorist is forced out of the beaten path to pass another motorist."

Little bits of snow news from other towns:
ATHENS.—Ten alarms during the week ran the January fire call total to a record high of 38, Chief E. F. Lester said. Fires this week were caused when citizens attempted to thaw out frozen water pipes, he said.

EATONTON.—Schools closed Tuesday and will not reopen until Monday. School bus roads are impassable. Flu cases are on the increase.

SPARTA.—Snow and slush on school bus routes made it impossible for many buses to make rounds. Schools were still open yesterday.

MARINE BAND LEADER RETIRES FEBRUARY 1
WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(P)—Captain Taylor Branson, leader of the United States marine band for nearly 13 years, is retiring February 1 because of physical disability.

Former Oil Worker Gable Signs for $4,000 a Week

$1,500,000 Contract Will Run for 52 Weeks a Year for Seven Years Without Options, and Gives Him Time Off To Go Hunting.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.—(P)—Clark Gable, once an oil field worker, signed a new contract today that will pay him almost $1,500,000.

His new salary of $4,000 a week was reported to represent a $1,000-a-week raise.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer studio said the contract was unusual in that it is for a straight seven years without options, runs for 52 weeks a year instead of the usual 40 but permits the actor time off during October, November and December—the hunting season.

Gable will be required to appear in at least three pictures annually with a fourth probable.

With his actress-wife, Carole Lombard, who also earns a fancy wage, Gable leaves by motor tomorrow on a Mexican hunting trip.

RAIL VETERAN RETIRES
AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 25.—Lucius O. Evans Sr., 71, has retired from the Georgia Railroad after 58 years' continuous service as fireman and engineer. He entered the service as fireman in 1888 and was made engineer in 1897.

Check Both Reasons for Buying "Double-Rich" Kentucky Bourbon

Not just "Kentucky Bourbon"—but the choicest selection of Kentucky's "prize" whiskey—double rich in the characteristic flavor and bouquet which have made Kentucky Bourbon famous wherever fine whiskey is relished.

As the largest-selling straight Bourbon in the world, Cream of Kentucky can be priced remarkably low for its "Double-Rich" quality. That's why you're wise to join the majority, and say: "Make mine Cream!"

Three New Films in Atlanta Tell British, Russian Stories

Nelson Eddy Plays at Fox; 'Tower of London' at Paramount; Capitol Shows 'British Intelligence'; Rialto Holds 'His Girl Friday'; 'GWTW' Begins Seventh Week.

Two shows featuring British history and one telling musically of Russia are new on Atlanta's screens this week.

"Balalaika," in which Nelson Eddy gets a beautiful new singing partner, Ilona Massey, is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's second story of Russia in recent months. The other was Greta Garbo's "Ninotchka." Eddy is playing this time at the Fox theater.

"Tower of London" stars Boris Karloff and Basil Rathbone as the Earl of Chichester and the Duke of Richmond, respectively, in a story of fifteenth century England. "British Intelligence" is another Karloff picture about England. It will open Sunday at the Capitol.

The Rialto is holding the very popular "His Girl Friday," in which Cary Grant and Rosalind Russell romp. The Rhodes also is holding its last week feature, "The Earl of Chichester," starring Robert Montgomery and Edward Arnold. The grand still features "Gone With the Wind." The Roxy will star Clyde McCoy on the stage starting Sunday.

FOX PRESENTS EDDY WITH NEW PARTNER
"Balalaika," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer musical starring Nelson Eddy and introducing the newest toast of the motion picture world, Ilona Massey, is currently playing at the Fox theater.

The picture was originally scheduled for Loew's Grand, but the extended run of "Gone With the Wind" forced the producers to seek another outlet for their product. The next Andy Hardy picture also will play at the Fox, it was learned.

Advance information on "Balalaika" says the film is the story of Ilona herself. She refugees from Russia, studies music in Vienna and finally arrives in America, where she gets a good chance. The film is filled with romance and music, with Miss Massey proving a beautiful and talented co-star for the curly locked Mr. Eddy.

PARAMOUNT SHOWS FILM OF ENGLISH HISTORY
One of the bloodiest and most dramatic periods in all history, the fighting fifteenth century, will reach the screen for the first time when "Tower of London" opens today at the Paramount theater.

A year in the making, the new drama offers Basil Rathbone as the diabolical Richard III, infamous "Crookback King," and includes some of Hollywood's ablest dramatic players in its cast of hundreds.

Boris Karloff has a powerful part as Richard's ally, the fearsome executioner of the tower; Ian Hunter is seen as Edward IV, and Barbara O'Neil follows her hit performance in "When Tomorrow Comes" with the role of Edward's wife, Elizabeth. Nan Grey and John Sutton portray the romantic leads and Vincent Price, Leo Carroll, Lionel Belmore and Miles Mander are other principals.

MODEL TO BE FEATURED ON CAPITOL STAGE
When the new stage show, "Flying Down to Rio," opens a week's engagement at the Capitol-theater Sunday, Atlantans will have the opportunity of seeing in person Andree Andrea, the noted New York artists' model, whose pictures have graced the front pages of many nationally known magazines.

She heads a cast of 30 continental stars who are featured in the cast of this musical show. The daughter of a French army officer, her early childhood was spent in the garrison of Beche de Mer, where her father was stationed with the French legion.

At a very early age she joined the Folies Berger in Paris and for several seasons was the star of this elaborate production, in which she created the sensational "Goddess of Love" dance which she will perform on the Capitol stage.

Included in the case are Elmer Cleve, Broadway's favorite wit; Professor Cheer, the man with the musical head; Don Galvin, the troubador of the tropics; the Dunham brothers, who were featured for a year on Broadway in "I Married an Angel"; Jamie, the man with the fastest hands in the world, and others, including a line of beautiful senoritas.

On the screen the Capitol will offer "British Intelligence," starring Boris Karloff and Margaret Lindsay.

"HIS GIRL FRIDAY" STAYS AT RIALTO
Atlanta likes Howard Hawks' new Columbia picture, "His Girl Friday," just as it liked his previous success, "Only Angels Have Wings." Because of the capacity crowds which have been the rule at the Rialto theater since "His Girl Friday" opened last Friday, Manager Murray is holding the attraction over for a second week.

Curry Grant, who seems to be Hawks' favorite leading man—understandably—has one of the star roles in the newspaper story, that of the hard-boiled and news-crazy managing editor. Rosalind Russell is co-starred as the managing editor's ex-wife and star reporter, while Ralph Bellamy is the quiet, steady insurance man she wants to marry, in order to escape from the nerve-racking job of reporting for her ex-husband and boss.

But Grant has different ideas. He wants to marry the gal again himself and, perhaps more important to him, he doesn't want to lose a swell reporter.

CROWDS STILL FLOCK TO SEE "GWTW"

RHODES TO HOLD OVER "EARL OF CHICHESTER"

"The Earl of Chichester," starring Robert Montgomery, has been held over for a second week at the Rhodes theater.

The story is as unusual and original as any yet brought to the screen, with Montgomery playing Silky Kilmont, liquor racketeer, who becomes an English earl by inheritance. Not as heavy a characterization as the psychopathic murderer Montgomery played in "Night Must Fall," which brought him nomination for the Academy award, it is an equally fascinating characterization and the star plays it to the hilt.

MARCH OF TIME TELLS FINNS' STORY

A vivid and enlightening film story of the Finnish people, who are today desperately fighting to defend their little 21-year-old nation from an attack by Soviet Russia, is brought to the screen of the Paramount theater today, in the latest March of Time, entitled "The Republic of Finland."

With colorful scenes of Finnish ski troops and other military units in action, the March of Time emphasizes the strategy and genius of Finland's famed General Carl Mannerheim, the unsundering courage of Finnish youth in their desperate struggle with Soviet Russia to retain the independence their people had sought for centuries, and for which they fought so hard only 21 years ago.

Depicting the life and national character of Finland's people, this newest March of Time features unusual pictures of the founding of the Finnish republic in 1919, when General Mannerheim led Finland's victorious white army against the Bolsheviks and secured the nation's independence.

Tracing the development of the republic of Finland since then, the March of Time film shows how this rugged little nation was able to forestall starvation and immediate ruin—after gaining independence—with the aid of Herbert Hoover's American Relief Administration and a $9,000,000 loan from the United States government. Out of countless millions of feet of timber cut from its immense woodlands every year, the film shows, Finland has been able to build up a score of industries, chief among which has been its wood-producing industry accounting for 90 per cent of Finland's export trade and serving as the foundation of this young nation's economic independence.

OLD CLOTHING SOUGHT BY SALVATION ARMY

Salvation Army officials yesterday called upon Atlanta citizens to donate old clothing and discarded shoes to provide relief for needy persons during the extreme cold weather.

Captain G. G. Strandberg, officer in charge of the Men's Social Service Department, said Atlantans may telephone Jackson 2224 and a truck will be sent to collect articles, with lumber and building materials dealers coming next.

Majority of U. S. Voters Think He's Done Good Job in Office.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 25.—As the last year of his second term in office begins this week, Franklin D. Roosevelt continues to hold popular support as President among a large majority of his fellow countrymen in a national institute survey. More than six voters in every ten polled say they think he has done a good job in office, and his popularity index is as great today as when he was elected in 1936.

This fact does not mean, however, that the majority of voters endorse the idea of a third term, or that his popularity would continue at the same level in case he decided to run for a third term. The President's popularity in office has been measured from month to month since 1934 by nationwide Institute surveys in which this question is asked: "In general, do you approve or disapprove today of Roosevelt as President?"

The most recent results, covering the month of January, are shown below as well as a comparison with last month. The comparison shows no net change since December.

This month Last month

In a second series of surveys the Institute keeps a continuous index of sentiment on a third term for Roosevelt.

The results show that many persons who approve of the President at this point in his second term say they would not be willing to vote for him for a third term. The actual results in the last third term survey, released January 12, were:

Would Vote for Roosevelt for third term 46% Would Vote Against 54

AGNES SCOTT QUEEN NOMINATION TODAY

Students To Reign at May Festival Will Be Proposed.

Agnes Scott college students today will give the first indication of the coming of spring as they make nominations for "most beautiful student," who will reign as May Queen.

The nominations will provide three candidates for election February 2. The student body will choose the queen and the maid of honor; the May Court will be selected by a committee-in-charge with Miss Eloise Lennard as chairman.

The pacesetter will trace the history of the school through the styles current in each year of the college's 50-year life. The scenario is being written by a committee of alumnae composed of Miss Mary Ann Kernan, Miss Hortense Jones, Miss Lita Goss, and Mrs. Frank Sewell.

The cast will include 50 alumnae and students, each representing a year since the founding of Agnes Scott college in 1890. The characters will be used to develop the theme of the pageant and will deal with the progress of women in education.

LUTHERANS SCORE ENVOY TO VATICAN

FDR Condemned for Naming Representative to Papal State.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—(P)—President Roosevelt's appointment of a diplomatic representative to the Vatican was condemned by the National Lutheran Council today as a "violation of the best American traditions and contrary to the fundamental principles of the separation of church and state." The resolution was adopted at the 22d annual meeting of the council, which has the support of some 7,000 Lutheran churches in the United States.

It followed a report of a committee assigned to a study of state participation in religious matters. Members of the committee were Dr. F. H. Knobel and Dr. Ralph H. Long, of New York, and Dr. L. W. Boe, of Northfield, Minn.

The hardest water is apt to come from deep wells.

Not Poison Ivy! It's 'Rhus Toxicodendron,' Chides Dr. W. B. Baker, Botanical Expert

If You Want Sprig in Garden Named, Just Ask Emory Hobbyist.

Almost everyone has a hobby. It may be golf. It may be collecting stamps. It may be building miniature airplanes. But members of the Georgia Society of Naturalists probably present the most unusual list of hobbies. Following is the third of five articles about some of these people and the romance they derive from probing into the mysteries of nature.

By LUKE GREENE.

If you want to know the fancy name for a new sprig in your flower garden, consult Dr. W. B. Baker, biologist at Emory University.

He sports 14-karat botanical names with as much ease as a housewife gossips with her neighbor across the fence. But there's a reason. Flowers and shrubs are his hobby.

Maybe you are taking a tramp with him through the woods in the spring. Suddenly your feet become entangled in a mass of vines. You look down in disgust and mutter:

"Oh, it's poison ivy."

Not Poison Ivy.

"Ah, ah, but you are wrong," says Dr. Baker. "That isn't poison ivy. That's rhus toxicodendron."

Perhaps you'll stumble across something you say is "dogtooth violet," but Dr. Baker will remind you that it's really "erythronium americanum."

And so it goes. Maybe you've heard Latin is a dead language, but you'd never know it while around this botanical expert who likes nothing better than to roam the woods and hills when the trees are budding and the flowers and shrubs are rearing their heads.

Recognized Authority.

Dr. Baker is recognized as an authority in things botanical. Whenever he's around a group of flower lovers, they are always asking him the name of this and that. He'll answer them with one of his ten-dollar words. Of course, most of the time they won't remember what he said but they like to hear the big words ripple off his tongue.

Georgia has something like 2,500 different species of plants. Pick out almost any one of them and Dr. Baker will identify it and give you its botanical name. That's more words than many persons have in their entire vocabulary.

Maybe you like your golf or your baseball game, but Dr. Baker prefers a jaunt through the woods any day in the week. It's hard to get far with him, however. He stops at almost every flower and twig to take a squint and brush up on his botanical terminology.

Many plants, he will tell you, get their scientific names from the use to which they were put originally.

Take, for instance, the hepatica. It has three lobes and looks much like a liver. For this reason the old folks used to think it was good for liver trouble. Hence, the name hepatica, "hepatic" meaning of or pertaining to the liver. Many names of plants really sprang from the old herb doctors, he says.

When Dr. Baker talks to you about flowers and shrubs, he waxes eloquent. He thinks there is nothing like nature for sheer beauty.

Constitution Staff Photo—H. J. Clayton.

The man who can tell you the botanical name of virtually any plant to be found in Georgia sits back in his chair with pipe in hand and chats about wild flowers and shrubs, which happen to be his hobby. He is Dr. W. B. Baker, Emory University biologist. The sprout in his hand—well, you couldn't pronounce it, anyway.

"To look at a hillside covered with dogwood blooms just naturally inspires you and lifts you up," he says. "It puts you in a better position to enjoy living."

Talks of South.

Suddenly he shifts his conversation to the south and its economic problems.

"If the south is to pull out of its so-called position as economic problem No. 1, it must know its plants and how they can be grown," he points out emphatically.

The south, he explains, is the cradle of American botany. And it has the long growing season and excellent soil that are so necessary.

Dr. Baker is an all-around outdoors man. He can sleep out on the ground under the stars and love it. He can poise a boat through a swamp and never grumble.

And if he had his way there would be more places like the Okefenokee swamp. He describes it as a "botanical paradise."

TWO FEARED DROWNED TAKING WAVE PHOTOS

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Jan. 25.—(P)—Two private medical detachments were believed to have been swept into the ocean while taking pictures of high waves near here yesterday. They were Benjamin Pounds, 21, Magnolia, Miss., and Zill Shaw, 22, Marlin, Texas.

BRITISH BOMBERS FLOWN OVER U. S.

ships, and the company pilots are understood not to be too meticulous about the law in permitting members of the French crews to relieve them en route, and while still over American soil.

The practice has been to fly over a southern route to some landing field, near a southeastern city, load up with the additional gas necessary for a long flight and then hop to Batavia, Newfound-land, which is the British "jump-off place" for Ireland.

Say Fliers American.

(Attendants at the Municipal airport hangar where the Lockheed bombers have been stored on their overnight stops while en route to the east from California said that the planes had been taking on just enough gasoline to get them to New York. They also said crews were "definitely American" and that no Frenchmen or other foreigners had been aboard on any of the flights.)

The planes are then equipped with extra gasoline tanks for the trans-Atlantic trip and go over in groups, as the numbers waiting at Batavia and as the weather dictate. Flying has recently been greatly curtailed by the weather over the Atlantic.

The neutrality law with subsequent proclamation by President Roosevelt, forbids military planes being flown over American soil by nationals belonging to the armed services of belligerents, neither is an American crew permitted to fly such a plane over the Canadian border.

There has grown up a somewhat awkward procedure, with the sanction of the state department, to get around the difficulty of physical transfer. There are airfields on the border, notably the one at Sweetgrass, Mont., where the following course is prescribed for the "shipping" of airplanes in consonance with the neutrality act.

No Adequate Patrol

The plane is landed by an American crew on the American side of the field. Before it crosses to the Canadian side, title is transferred to the British or the other party in interest. Then it is required that the plane be pushed over the border line, where it can then be entered and flown away by its foreign crew.

The American government has no adequate air patrol to keep these things from happening, even if it were not conscious of the facts and "winking" at the procedure. The tendency of the administration to do all in its power to help the Allies "short of war" is so well known that the latter situation would seem entirely possible.

Foreign crews which are to fly the planes doubtless need some period of familiarization before attempting the hazardous trans-Atlantic hop. They can get it with the assistance of American pilots over American soil or over Canadian soil. The method outlined has been hit upon, since it is also a violation for American pilots to cross the border for this purpose, besides being a distinct inconvenience.

BUSINESS RESEARCH WILL BE EXPLAINED

Commerce Department Methods To Be Described at Luncheon Here Today.

Dr. Nathaniel H. Engle, assistant director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, will address a luncheon of businessmen at the Ansley hotel at 12:30 o'clock today on the business research program put in effect early last year by the Department of Commerce, co-operating with state university schools of business in gathering research information for businessmen.

The meeting is sponsored by the University of Georgia School of Commerce headed by Dean R. P. Brooks. The program contemplates taking the following specific steps:

Increase the availability of existing business research facilities by ascertaining what facilities are now available, what research projects now are in progress, and setting up a clearing house in the department for business research activities throughout the nation.

Strengthen the business research program of the department and those of the state university schools of business by establishing wherever possible co-operative arrangements on specific studies, and by utilizing the part-time or full-time services of trained research personnel from the universities wherever possible.

Reduce duplication of effort, and thereby promote economy and efficiency in business research.

Encourage decentralization of research projects, and make regional and local research more effective by having it done in the universities by local men familiar with local problems, and enjoying the confidence of local businessmen. At the same time make available to the local research workers information on new techniques and methods developed by the Department of Commerce and by universities.

Aid the small businessman by giving him a closer source of information on conditions affecting his business.

MINISTERS' WEEK TO END AT EMORY

Final Lectures Will Be Delivered Today; Weather Hurts Attendance.

Clergymen from five southeastern states who attended the sixth annual Ministers' Week at Emory University despite heavy snows which clogged highways will conclude their conference today.

Two lectures this morning will complete the series begun Monday when a scant 100 ministers registered for the study course expected to draw nearly 200 clergymen from West Virginia to Louisiana.

Bishop James H. Straughn, of Baltimore, who spoke yesterday, also will lecture at 11 o'clock this morning in the theology school chapel on "The Methodist Advance, an Answer to the Challenge of a World at War."

An hour later the main speaker of the week, Dr. Henry Sloan Coffin, president of the Union Theological Seminary in New York City, will talk on "The Social Conscience." It will be his fifth lecture at the conference, sponsored by the Candler School of Theology.

Five short courses on phases of ministerial work will be concluded at their regular meeting hour, 9 o'clock, in the theology building. Dr. Watt Aiken Smart, head of the theology school at Emory, will speak at 10 o'clock.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(P)—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today received, in recognition of his services to the people of China, the grand cordon bleu of the Order of Jade.

MINNOWS IN A MILL MAKE WHALE OF A JAM

FORT ST. JOE, Fla., Jan. 25.—(P)—Minnows caused a whale of a lot of trouble at the $7,500,000 Port St. Joe paper mill.

Engineers were puzzled when the machinery jammed, causing a crew of 600 works to idle. Finally they learned that a school of salt-water minnows searching for food had swarmed into the huge pipe through which thousands of gallons of water flows into the mill.

SHOW GOES ON Snow, ice, sleet—name your weather—it's business as usual for Atlanta's farflung industrial system. Just look how the smoke was coming out of the stacks out at the steel plant yesterday—and that little switch engine puffing its fool head off in the cold.

CHOO-CHOO This is just a bustling little picture that looked especially good to the man that picks 'em for the paper. Engine puffing up a storm on a snowy background in the yards here.

COUNT EM Just look at the street cars stacked up in this snow-made traffic jam in Washington. Yep, the capital was hit hard as our own Atlanta, and the folks up there got to work late too. Some of 'em got plumb disgusted at thins, crawled out and walked. See that line alongside.

WHOA, RIVER Well, sir, the Delaware river just got so cold that she couldn't keep on, so she stopped like this just above Trenton and piled up to rest. Huge, grinding floes, overlapping and scrambling for elbow room, made a dangerous proposition out of that stream as river boats hit for shelter. It was something like this in many places up north and east yesterday as the cold wave sat down on the nation and made itself at home, many sections chalking up new records for general cussedness of the elements. (Acme)

Nation's Idle Money Creates $45,000,000,000 Credit

$5,590,000,000 in Reserve Bank Deposits Is New Record High; Board Asks Congress for Powers to Combat Potential Credit Inflation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The Federal Reserve Board announced tonight that the idle money in the nation's banks had reached a new record high of $5,590,000,000—a potential credit base for $45,000,000,000 worth of loans.

The vast amounts of credit which could be extended from these stores of lendable excess reserves has caused the board several times in recent months to urge congress to create special powers to combat the potential credit inflation.

The sum of idle money in the banks—technically the amount of money in the banks in excess of legal reserves to protect deposits—has increased nearly $2,000,000,000 in the last year alone, primarily because of foreign gold and capital shipments to the United States.

The new total announced for January 24 was $90,000,000 higher than a week ago because of such gold shipments.

Excess reserves piled up rapidly in the banks throughout 1939, reaching a peak of $5,330,000,000 on October 25. Then the figure was reduced temporarily by government borrowing and public withdrawal of funds for Christmas shopping. Since Christmas shopping funds have started coming back to the banks either from stores or the original owners, excess reserves have been swelling again, aided by gold imports.

The board's statement said: "During the week ended Janu-

Heat of a Kiss Fatal to Germs, Doctor Asserts

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 25.—(AP)—University of California health officers decreed a 60-day ban on kissing after 18 students were stricken with mild cases of influenza. This, Dr. S. L. Katzoff said today, was a mistake.

"A good, healthy kiss never spread any germs," said Dr. Katzoff, medical director and psychiatrist of the San Francisco Institute of Human Relations. "A genuine kiss generates so much heat it destroys germs. If anything, the university ought to advocate more kissing."

January 24 member bank reserve balances increased $128,000,000. Additions to member bank reserves arose from decreases of $40,000,000 in money in circulation and $68,000,000 in Treasury deposits with federal reserve banks and from increases of $74,000,000 in gold stock and $1,000,000 in Treasury currency, offset in part by increases of $20,000,000 in Treasury cash and $34,000,000 in non-member deposits and other federal reserve accounts. Excess reserves of member banks on January 24 were estimated to be approximately $5,590,000,000, an increase of $90,000,000 for the week.

CRISIS HITS JAPAN AS U. S. PACT ENDS

however, that the drastic American move may restrain the more ardent of the extreme Japanese nationalists and contribute to more lenient terms by Japan when peace with China finally is made.

The foreign office spokesman, in a statement at midnight, said that trade relations with the moment were expected to continue without change because of measures taken by both governments to prevent the application of automatic penalties.

The advent of a "no treaty situation," he said, is deplored in Japan and would seem to be not desirable from the viewpoint of the United States because of dislocations in Japanese-American trade which may ensue.

Japan confidently hopes that negotiations for some sort of an agreement can be continued, the spokesman said.

"It appears that the action of the United States in abrogating the treaty was intended to contribute toward a solution of various Japanese-American questions arising from the China affair," the spokesman said.

Citing the importance of mutually beneficial trade relations and the existence of many fields of endeavor in which Japan and third powers can co-operate to create a better situation in east

Nipponese Trade Ties to U. S. Are Pictured, Showing How Embargo Would Hurt Japan

January 26, Ending Commercial Pact, Is Important Date.

By The Associated Press. January 26 is an important date in the history of our foreign relations, because it marks the end—by our action—of our treaty of trade and friendship with Japan. That doesn't mean that we shall stop trading with Japan; it does mean that if we decide to take any economic action against her, we can do so without breaking a treaty. And there is a movement in congress to shut off exports unless Japan restores the open door in China.

As this chart indicates, what Japan buys from the United States is more important to her than what she sells us.

The figures are for the first 11 months of 1939. In that period, our imports from Japan increased $27,000,000 over the same period in 1938, the higher prices of raw silk accounting for most of the gain. In the same period, our exports to Japan dropped about $1,000,000. Part of this was due to the unofficial boycott on the sale of military aviation material. At the same time, big increases were shown in the sales of such war material as iron, steel scrap and copper.

14 DEVIL'S ISLAND FUGITIVES DETAINED

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Fourteen escaped convicts from the French penal colony at Devil's Island, who arrived here yesterday in an open boat, were detained tonight while authorities awaited instructions from Washington concerning their disposition.

The fugitives said they had left Trinidad January 19 in an attempt to reach Mexico. They put in here to repair their boat. Although short of provisions, they appeared to be in good physical condition.

Asia, the spokesman said that the Japanese government "deemed it appropriate to elucidate further its position to the American government and to seek a readjustment of relations."

The spokesman denied that Japan seeks to eliminate the "unequal and reasonable interests of third powers in China" and added that the "Japanese government has no intention of discriminating in any way against American goods or vessels."

Despite the government's reassuring statements, the Domei news agency said that traders were uneasy at the prospects of a protracted no-treaty situation, fearing that Washington might decide at any moment unilaterally to abolish the present situation thereby sharply affecting commercial transactions.

tions still another ship of this class, the battleship "H." Many believe this ship is the one for which Adolf Hitler has reserved the name "Deutschland."

The 10,000-ton pocket battleship Deutschland's return home after five months of raiding merchant shipping was announced today, along with disclosing that Hitler had ordered her renamed the "Luetzow" so her old name could go to a mightier new ship.

In addition, a 40,000-ton flagship is reported to be under construction, to be named for Frederick the Great.

Authorized sources said the safe return and exploits of the erstwhile Deutschland, sister ship of the scuttled Admiral Graf Spee, demonstrated that Great Britain "is not completely mistress of the seas."

Her feats were not recounted in detail. That she participated in the sinking of the British armed merchantman Rawalpindi, in which nearly 300 lost their lives, was not denied. On the other hand, it was not officially confirmed.

Authorities explained they did not want the enemy admiralties to know what course the Deutschland took, which ships were sunk by the pocket battleship and which by submarines or other craft.

(The fifth of a new series of 10,000-ton cruisers, launched last July 1, already had been named the Luetzow. What its new name will be was not disclosed. The name originally was borne by a World War battle cruiser sunk in the Battle of Jutland.)

The Germans also announced destruction of a British plane on a scouting flight over Duisburg—10 miles from Essen, center of the Krupp munition works. A Nazi fighting plane shot down the Britisher.

Naval commentators said the Deutschland had given a "brilliant" account of herself as a sea raider.

Naval sources declared that during her tour of sea duty the Deutschland had operated without any supporting base to fall back upon, and that officers and crew were practically on their own without guidance from home.

This meant, they said, maintenance of continual vigilance, taxing the crews' physical powers of endurance to the utmost.

It was understood that two questions of naval construction had been raised by reports on the condition of her sister ship, the Admiral Graf von Spee, following her battle with three British cruisers off the coast of Uruguay last December 13.

These questions were:
1—Does welding instead of riveting the armor plate of a man-of-war, to reduce weight and increase speed, insure sufficient stability?

2—Is it safe to concentrate on armament at the expense of the thickness of armor plate?

German merchantmen which recently sailed from South American ports for secret rendezvous to feed and fuel the long-range fighting ships.

Authorities also said that three ships of a Latin-American nation, long suspected of having supplied the scuttled German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee with oil and food, had been out of port for several days.

Britain's refusal to recognize the 300-mile neutrality belt set up by the Americas was believed to have encouraged Germany to do likewise. Destruction of the Graf Spee and her return to the raiding Deutschland to Germany for refitting—and renaming—was also believed to have prompted the plan. they can meet the German demands only by defying the Allied warning and levying quotas for Germany on the French and British companies.

Fear War in Spring.

Indications that neither side is disposed to yield in the controversy caused by increasing fear in Rumania that the coming of spring will turn the country into a battlefield. Rumania's position already has been rendered difficult by Hungarian and Bulgarian demands for territorial revision at Rumanian expense, and by Russian claims to the province of Bessarabia.

Articles in the London press are interpreted here as meaning that Britain might be forced to withdraw her pre-war guarantees to this country if King Carol accedes to German demands.

Papers also have published a quotation from Le Temps of Paris to the effect that Britain and France will do everything, even against Rumania's will, to prevent her from falling into Germany's sphere of influence.

Government Prepares.

Meanwhile the government continued military preparations, establishing wheat, iron and steel commissions in addition to the recently created petroleum commission to assure that all the country's resources will be available in event of war.

A general co-ordinating commission also was created.

The government is expected to make a strong effort at the meeting of the Balkan entente in Belgrade February 2 to line up the solid support of her partners in an attempt to stave off the war threat. The other members of the entente are Turkey, Yugoslavia and Greece.

JAPAN BUYS THIRD OF IMPORTS IN U. S.

Sell America Fifth of Exports, Commerce Department Reveals.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(P)—With the Japanese-American trade treaty due to expire in 24 hours, the Commerce Department made public tonight a study showing that Nippon depends upon this country for a third of all the foreign merchandise it buys and normally sells a fifth of all its exports here.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau said today that, as far as he knew, no discrimination against Japanese goods would be made in assessing customs duties after tomorrow.

However, after the treaty expires, the United States no longer will be bound legally to treat Japanese goods on a par with merchandise from other parts of the world.

In the month before the war, the Commerce Department's analysis said, 37.6 per cent of Japan's foreign purchases were made in the United States, but in the second month of the war the figure rose to 43.7 per cent.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 26, 1940.

What Does He Want?

Beetle-browed John L. Lewis, president of the CIO, asserted in a speech Wednesday night the Democratic party had "broken faith with labor," and added the prediction that, if the Democrats nominate President Roosevelt for a third term, they will "go down in ignominious defeat."

Lewis, according to press reports on his speech, then listed a series of generalities in which he said the Democratic administration had failed labor. Among them were the continuing unemployment problem, mounting public debt, increased taxation, restricted foreign trade, etc. He complained that labor had not sufficient voice in policy-making agencies of the administration and that there is no present contact with the administration other than "casual interviews with leaders."

It is hard to imagine what Lewis wants, if he is dissatisfied with the attitude of the present Democratic administration toward labor. For, surely, in all the history of this country there has never been a period which saw the enactment of so many laws designed for the benefit of the wage earners of the United States.

All the social security program of the New Deal, including old age benefits, unemployment and sickness insurance; the wage and hours bill, and the national labor relations act, with its administrative board, are some of the outstanding contributions of this administration to the cause of the working man.

It is, of course, possible when Lewis refers to "labor" he means his own particular faction of organized labor and his own personal power. If, by "broken faith," he means a failure to permit the CIO—which means Lewis—to dictate the policies of the government as a whole, the Democratic administration is guilty of the charge. For such submission to any one group would be totally repugnant to every tenet of Americanism. This is still a government of all the people, by all the people and for all the people. The day has not yet come when the people of this nation will submit to dictation by Lewis or, even, government through the CIO.

However, no reasonable person can truthfully deny that the present Democratic administration, the "New Deal" if you will, has endeavored to its utmost to do more for the average American wage earner than any previous national regime. Even on the question of unemployment it has been, chiefly, government expenditures for relief and other attempts to solve this problem that have brought about the heavy increase in public debt.

Of course, the reference by Lewis to any third-term possibility for President Roosevelt is entirely beside the point. It smacks too much of a desire to dictate to the Democratic party. The national Democratic convention will select its own candidate, regardless of threats, thinly veiled or otherwise. The convention will select the man it believes best fitted, in these parlous times, for the office of President. It will ask the support of the voters for that candidate solely upon the grounds of his fitness for the office and on the record and platform of the party.

Who the Democratic candidate will be is, as yet, unknown. It is within possibility Roosevelt will seek a third term. Or it may be any one of a dozen other capable leaders. Whoever it is, he will not be ashamed to point to the record of the party for the past eight years, even its record as a friend of labor, to the working people of America.

Kwangs province is coining two-cent pieces out of tin cans. In mysterious China, the auto graveyard, as we know it, would be a branch of the mint.

In the nick of time, G-Man Hoover pulls in 17 characters who planned to overthrow the government with 750 rounds of ammunition. After the Finns' great showing, J. Edgar is taking no chances.

A thought arises out of the emancipation of the 91 baseball slaves. What are they doing about a play for Raymond Massey, to be entitled "Judge Landis in Illinois?"

Beer flowed lately from the water faucets in Joliet, Ill. It is not yet determined if this was a backwash from some brewery, or the new abundance.

Guilt, Not Beliefs

Earl Browder has been found guilty of false swearing in the obtaining and use of American passports. The testimony left no room for doubt as to his guilt and the jury took only 45 minutes to return its verdict. Yet, in accordance with traditions of mercy, the court sentenced Browder to only four years' imprisonment and a $2,000 fine. Under the law, a ten-year prison term and a fine of $4,000 was possible.

Browder is the head of the Communist party in the United States. He has been candidate for the presidency on that ticket and is, even now, running for one of the New York seats in congress. His party a few years ago was said to number 80,000 members. Inasmuch as recent world developments, including the Hitler-Stalin treaty, the Soviet attack on Finland, have made the duplicity of the Russian leaders of world Communism so plain even deluded party members in the United States can see the truth, that membership total must have shrunk.

However, even granting 80,000 members, the Communist party in this country is but an inconspicuous fly speck upon the map. Unpleasant, to be true, but not constituting any real menace to America.

Browder's political affiliations, though, have nothing to do with his conviction on passport fraud. His trial was conducted under scrupulously fair conditions. His guilt was proven upon grounds of law violation, solely. There was absolutely no appeal, by prosecution, to prejudice or to emotion. The facts in the case were simply laid before the jury, in coldly realistic fashion, and it was left to them to interpret those facts. They did so, with a verdict of guilty at the end of a 45-minute session.

Undoubtedly the few Communists in the United States will try, vociferously, to distort the facts and to shout "persecution" at the top of their well-developed lungs. A handful of Communists can make an awful lot of noise, as the Dies committee revealed.

The simple truth is that, had Browder been Democrat, Republican, Townsendite or gullible Ham an' Egger, the outcome of his trial would have been exactly the same. He was found guilty of passport fraud, not of Communism. Strange as it may seem, Communism is not a crime in the United States. It is the fruits of Communism that are so often criminal.

Let's Get Back to Normal

Atlanta, experiencing something exceedingly rare in the heavy snows of this week, somewhat naturally tended to toss everyday affairs to the winds and revel in the sports and fun and frolic—and problems and discomforts—of real northern winter.

It is time, now, however, that the city returned to its normal mode of activity. There is no longer any reason why business and other affairs of life should not go on as usual.

Thanks to the splendid work of the various city departments, the downtown streets have been well cleared of snow and ice. Nearly all suburban and residential streets are easily navigable by any automobile. Other modes of transportation are in full operation. Street cars, buses, telephones, electricity and all the utilities are carrying on as usual.

The schools will be open again on Monday. There is really no reason why anyone should, any longer, permit weather to interfere with normalcy.

So, let's get the weather off our minds. Stores are all open, with many tempting bargains. They are warm. Streets and sidewalks are practically clear, all over the downtown area, at least. Let's go on with our jobs, with our social activities and with our daily affairs once again, without further interruption.

In the case of Hore-Belisha, it appears that "very great qualities" were what made him impossible to get along with. Like our New York Yanks.

In New York, an iron worker dances on a slender girder 500 feet above the street, and would like to swap experiences with some politician running on his record.

The ruthlessness of the Red tyrant goes beyond anything heretofore. They say many of the 105 officers purged by Stalin for the Finnish failure weren't even his friends.

A strange case, that of little Belgium. With hearty assurances of non-aggression from Britain and France, and three from Germany, she can't relax.

BLESSING IN DISGUISE

(From The Memphis Commercial Appeal.)
Great Britain has suspended purchases of the bright leaf tobacco raised in Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia and lumped under the name "Virginia" in Europe. It has turned to Turkey for imports of tobacco, and it means a nice piece of business lost here and gained in Turkey.

Leaving other reactions aside for the moment, the dean of State College in North Carolina had one of the most practical. Hardly had the announcement of Great Britain's decision been made before this gentleman was urging tobacco farmers to plan for food and feed crops in more than usual abundance. Food in the house and feed in the barn, he pointed out, are good in any case and will be especially useful if the British policy stands.

If the tobacco belt in question is forced by Great Britain to take the dean's advice to heart and apply it, the farmers concerned may look back on what happened to them in 1940 as one of the greatest of all their blessings. With millions of dollars' worth of good tobacco lacking any market, we admit the blessing is heavily disguised now, but we also know something of the uncertainty and disaster that the one-crop system has regularly visited on the tobacco country.

Having preached and observed the live-at-home gospel for many years, particularly in sponsoring the Plant-to-Prosper competition in the south, we have seen many live-at-home practitioners win free from the bondage imposed by sole reliance on cotton. The plan will work as well with tobacco growers.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

"STUPIDITY," SAID HULL WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The current controversy between the American and British governments arises chiefly from the unfortunate British habit of taking this country for granted. "Stupidity" was the blunt but exact word used by Secretary of State Cordell Hull in his interview with Lord Lothian, and he ignored a miserable cold and disobeyed doctor's orders condemning him to bed in order to be able to use it. If Hull pitched it pretty strong, he did so with obvious justification. He and the President and other leaders of the administration have made no secret of their sympathy for the Allied cause. Furthermore, they have run great political risks to make the resources of the United States available to the Allies. Yet, being taken for granted is their only reward.

Nor could the British have found a worse point than a shipping policy to begin the process of taking us for granted. The President is a shipping man by second nature and makes a dandy hobby of the American merchant marine. He must have taken the British discrimination against our shipping as an almost personal affront. It is known that in using such strong language to the British ambassador, Hull was following the direct suggestion of the White House.

TOBACCO AND THE WAR Of course, the British attitude, standable. Leaving shipping for the moment, the best illustration of the motives behind British policy is to be found in the refusal of the British government to grant import licenses for American tobacco. This threatens to be extremely serious to American tobacco growers in the south. The export trade amounts to $70,000,000 a year. English cigarette companies have large supplies of American tobacco, but when these supplies run out British smoking tastes must be forcibly changed unless the order against import licenses is revoked. Once the tastes have been changed, the market will be lost.

On the other hand, the British are engaged in a life-and-death war. Their reserves of foreign exchange are limited and they can borrow no money in this country. American manufacturers are driving such stiff bargains that in one instance the Allied purchasing mission has been asked to build $75,000,000 worth of new plant to obtain $25,000,000 worth of airplanes. They want to use their foreign exchange here for planes, and to get commodities like tobacco elsewhere. In woeing Turkey, they were forced to offer a credit of 60,000,000 pounds, which can be partly repaid in Turkish tobacco. Thus, to the British, the order against imports of American tobacco seems a natural step.

The same sort of conflict may be found in all the other questions now in controversy. The main ones are: (1) Long delays of American vessels at British contraband stations, while vessels of less friendly neutrals, such as Italy, are passed rapidly through. (2) Opening of mail to Germany found on American vessels brought into contraband stations. (3) Bringing of the American ship, Moore-macrus, into the British contraband station at Kirkwall, in direct contravention of the provision in the revised neutrality act forbidding American ships to enter combat zones.

UNHAPPY LORD There is no known excuse for the discrimination at contraband stations, and American officials have received the answering British accusation of "non-cooperation" with ill-concealed annoyance. The matter of the mails is doubtful, since international law is clear that the British may search mail passing through their territory, but not clear as to whether mail brought involuntarily into their territory may also be searched. As for the Moore-macrus incident, the British were wholly within their rights under international law, but showed a cavalier disregard of American opinion.

Lord Lothian, who must pass on the American point of view to his government, is in the usual thorny position of British ambassadors to Washington. Sir Ronald Lindsay had a much worse task when he had to convince London that unless Secretary Hull's trade agreement policy were supported, no future help could be looked for from the New Englander.

Lord Lothian, no doubt he will use all his powers of persuasion to change his government's attitude, even while he is dutifully defending it at the State Department. And as the questions in controversy are chiefly questions of method, it is to be hoped that a generally agreeable settlement may be looked for.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

From 1 a. m. To 6 p. m.

Think of the poor fellows who work on a dairy farm. The milk men, to be direct. On such mornings, and days, as we've been experiencing this week.

Letter came in yesterday morning from a local dairy. It protests that while the papers have given lots of credit to all sorts of service people, not a thing has been said about "the poor milk man." That protest, of course, was uncalculated. Tribute has been paid to the milk man, I've read it myself, several times. But, just to make it all just and square, here's another. My letter writer says the milk man "has had the worst time of all." Maybe. Maybe not. We wouldn't know. There are, you must remember, lots of other people who have difficult times to perform in this kind of weather.

However, the case for the hardness of the milk man's lot is put in forceful and heartrending words by this letter writer. Read:

"On the farm the water pipes have been frozen and water had to be carried in buckets. The boys nearly froze trying to milk. The cows nearly froze, the milk froze, the roads were so slippery that the trucks could hardly get in from the farm, and then deliveries had to be made from house to house as the people expected the milk at the usual hour. Babies had to be fed and people had to have cream for their coffee so that they could get off to work."

"The milk man has been working from 1 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock at night and he has not even been thought of except for the customers to call the office and say that the milk man had not gotten to them."

"We know that the milk man deserves some credit, and we want to thank everyone who has been kind and considerate enough to appreciate what the milk man has done. He has worked hard and done his best to take care of his customers."

I'm sure he has.

There Are Others, Too.

The case for the most difficult job being that of the milk man is well made out, isn't it? There are other fellows who have done difficult and splendid work. Though how about the railroad men who've kept the wheels rolling so essential supplies can keep coming into the city?

How about the truck drivers who've struggled through ice-crueted and snow-drifted highways bringing produce and foods and so on to us?

How about the crews of the power company and the telegraph and telephone company who've kept the wires and other equipment working, so that service, even under exceptionally heavy load, has been uninterrupted?

How about the street car men who've worked 24 hours a day so that street cars and busses could keep local transportation going?

How about the police, who've been patient and helpful in traffic difficulties and have stood with frost-tipped ears and noses at their posts through it all?

How about the crews of workers from various city departments who have been doing such splendid work in clearing the packed snow and ice from streets?

How about the mailmen and the breadmen and the delivery boys for groceries and drug stores and so forth?

How about the messenger boys and have I forgotten anybody else?

They all deserve most beautiful illuminated scrolls of appreciation, or an extra pay envelope or a medal or something.

Far From Least—

I've kept this for the last, because it is in reference to some grand fellows peculiarly our own. How about the boys who have placed your morning paper outside your door, every morning through it all? Maybe a little later than usual, but that was unavoidable. Bet your boot it was.

Our carriers don't go in for avoidable delays.

When mentioning these carriers, you understand, I include the entire distribution department, beginning with the men of the mailing room and including the truck drivers who have pushed their trucks through the snow, in the early hours before daylight, all over north Georgia. Then to the boys and men in the Atlanta area who have been out not so many hours after midnight, every morning, ready to grab their bundles of papers and, despite cold and snow—

—it's bitter cold just before dawn, you know—have kept up the regularity of your paper on the front porch.

All of 'em have proven their mettle, this week. Duty is one of the sublime words of language. That everyone has done his full duty in the emergency is, perhaps, the finest accolade any one of them deserves.

The latter discovery was made by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, now engaged in an official survey of the waters around the Aleutian Islands."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Spelvin and NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—George Spelvin, the average American, has been running a fever about this business of raising money for the Finns, and last night when he came home he threw the old lady an argument. He often does this to get straightened out. He uses the old lady for his other self, but she is smarter than his other self—or his regular self, either, if it comes down to that—so she usually bends his ears back. Then Mr. Spelvin adopts her ideas on the proposition as his own, which is legally all right, because she is his old lady and what's hers is his.

Like last night Spelvin said, "It certainly looks suspicious to me."

"What is suspicious about it?" she asked. She didn't bother to ask what looked suspicious, because her part is to give him an argument. Sometimes before they are through he will be arguing her way, and then he will go around impressing people how smart he is on her ideas.

"What is suspicious about it?" she said.

"Why, sending all this money to those Finns," Mr. Spelvin said. "I don't see anything suspicious," she said.

"That's all you know," said Mr. Spelvin. "You know what they are saying, don't you? It is a conspiracy to get us hopped up and then get us back into the war to save the Jews."

"Who has been giving you that?" she said.

"Why, it's all over town," he said. "Everybody is onto it. Ask anybody."

"The Finns ain't Jews, are they?" Mrs. Spelvin said. "And the Norwegians ain't Jews, too, are they?"

The Idea

"No," he said, "but that ain't the idea. The idea is that the Jews are sore at the Nazis, so we get sucked in to help the Finns against the Russians, and then the Nazis move in to help the Russians against us and the Allies. So we win the war for the Jews. That's why you see so many Jews rooting for benefit shows for the Finns," she said.

"He is a stooge for them," Mr. Spelvin said.

"And President Roosevelt, too?" she said. "Are Hoover and Roosevelt partners now?"

"Don't be clever," he said. "When you run out of arguments you get nasty."

"Well," she said, "I always heard Hitler said Russia was under Jewish domination, and sometimes you used to say the Communists were all Jews. And now you are telling me the Jews are trying to drag us into a war to lick Communism. Why, I can remember when you said the Communists ought to be wiped out, and now that some Jews want to help the Finns wipe them out you are against the idea. You want to pull yourself together. Are you rooting for the Communists now?"

"No," he said. "I am against the Communists and fellow-travelers, too."

"Well, the Nazis are fellow-travelers in my book," Mrs. Spelvin said. "You said yourself they are going to help the Russians against the Finns and the Allies and against us, too, if we get sucked in against the Bolsheviks."

You Must

Be Right

"And that is what I am still saying," Mr. Spelvin replied.

"What I say is it is a conspiracy by the Russians and the Germans against the decent countries, and they are pulling that Jew stuff on us so nobody will want to help the poor Finns. Like you said yourself, the Finns, the Norwegians and the Swedes aren't Jews or Communists, either, but the Russians are Communists and the Germans are fellow-travelers. So when anybody goes to help the Finns fight Bolsheviks then all the Nazis around here start this propaganda about a conspiracy to have this country rescue the Jews from Germany. That is like I said when I came in. I said, 'it certainly looks suspicious to me, all this propaganda to keep us from helping the Finns.'"

"I guess you must be right, my dear," Mrs. Spelvin said.

"Sure," said Mr. Spelvin. "It is one of the most suspicious things I ever saw. That propaganda is all over town."

continued in 1939 by the Russian ice-breaker, Syedoff. Caught in the ice when her propeller was smashed in October, 1937, the ship has since drifted with the ice more than 2,750 miles and in 1939 established a record by reaching a point farther north than that attained by any other vessel of record—within approximately 250 miles of the pole. Continuous records made by observers aboard show the speed and direction of ice flow to be due primarily to winds; that a warm current flows deep in the Arctic ocean; and that the water teems with small animal and vegetable organisms used as food by higher forms of life.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

BORAH AND HISTORY I remember very well the last time I saw the late Senator William Edgar Borah. It was the day last fall when the special session of congress convened to take up the matter of the revising or not revising the embargo feature of our neutrality act.

The place was a small dining room reserved for members of the senate and the Washington correspondents. I was hurrying through lunch, taking the last bit of it, when Senator Borah came in alone. He ordered, I recall for some unknown reason, a pig's knuckle and boiled potato.

It was but a very few minutes before the President of the United States was to speak to the congress assembled. Borah vigorously opposed revision of the bill. I remember thinking then that it was a bit odd he was there alone to eat lunch, forsaking the joint meeting to hear the President's message.

He explained this later when the regular session of congress met. He explained it by remaining away from the President's speech, and saying:

"I prefer to read it. The President can explain a problem in algebra and make it interesting."

Apparently that day when the President was to speak on the neutrality bill, he preferred to lash himself to the mast of pig's knuckle and potatoes lest the President, Circe like, lure him to his side.

He looked lonely then. I recall thinking so, even as I looked on admiringly at the man whose fighting skill and integrity made him perhaps the most notable member of congress.

THE BORAH RECORD It is a little difficult to say what the final judgment of history shall be, against the background of the first World War and the second, with all that passed between.

Certainly he was a fighter and assuredly he had integrity and great courage.

He was a wrecker and not a constructionist. That, too, is all right, I assume. One does not need to be both. Perhaps it is better so to be. Borah did not build. He wrecked. Recently I read a resume of his record on major problems in our political history.

Borah fought the League of Nations and the entry of the United States into its permanent court. They have been in ruins since he led the assault.

In its place Borah sponsored the Kellogg-Briand treaty to which almost all the nations of the world solemnly put their signatures. Today that treaty has been violated by almost all of those who so solemnly signed while the newsreel cameras recorded permanent peace on the ribbons of film.

He had the courage not to be consistent. He insisted that the right of the ballot for women should be granted only by the states. He later supported prohibition by national constitutional amendment. He opposed NRA. He opposed the present neutrality act.

There are no "Borah laws" at which one may point.

There is his personal isolation, his unpredictability, his integrity and his courage.

ALWAYS A REPUBLICAN It is surprising, reading the record, to note how faithfully he remained within the Republican party. He spoke out, as is well remembered, against Alfred Landon, warning his party against him. Yet he remained with his party.

During his career he was for McKinley, Taft, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. True enough, he opposed them when they were in office. But Senator Borah never left the party. His independence did not stretch that far.

He supported recognition of Russia when that project of Mr. Roosevelt's was not popular with the rank and file of the Democratic party. On all individual questions he voted as he pleased without regard to party.

This, I think, was why he was reputedly a lonely man. Not even his own party, to which he was so faithful, could count on him to be with them in all things. There was no telling when Borah would rise at his seat and speak out against some pet project, Republican or otherwise. So, all rather feared him and his honesty.

To see him was to remember him forever. I saw him in action, a few times, on the floor, speaking with his powerful and analytical eloquence. He was picturesque without any of the trappings of picturesqueness which some of the members affect.

It will be interesting, 20 years hence, when enough of the cards are in, to see the estimate of Borah. He was a great man and a great American. There are too few like him, willing to be destructionists of that in which they do not believe.

And always I will remember him, looking very lonely indeed in a small restaurant in the nation's capital when all but he hurried toward the chamber of the house where the congress of the nation met to hear one of the most momentous presidential messages in the country's history.

Borah was pig's knuckle and potatoes.

Always the plain, saucelless realist.

Dixie Governors Hear Stark Plead for End of Barriers

Economic Solidarity Is Nation-Wide Task, Missouri Executive Declares; Wisconsin Visitor Explains Oleomargarine Tax; Rivers Cites Gains in Freight Rate Fight.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Economic solidarity, not only among southern states, but of all the states through removal of trade barriers was advocated here today as members of the Southern Governors' Conference met to discuss interstate problems.

"The unwise law of one state in 1900 was merely a blot on that state's statutes, but the unwise law of one state in 1940 inspires retaliatory laws from other states which are linked to it by bands of pavement," said Governor Lloyd C. Stark, of Missouri, president of the council of state governments.

Attorney General Greek L. Rice, of Mississippi, urged repeal of mutually restrictive laws against trade, mentioning particularly laws regulating movement and sale of dairy products, oleomargarine and alcoholic beverages.

As spokesmen for a group of Wisconsin agricultural department officials who attended the meeting in an avowed attempt to "remove or soften the differences of opinion between Wisconsin dairy interests and southern agriculturists," Ralph Ammons, director of agriculture, said the farmers of his state had no ill feeling toward the south.

"Their chief complaint, he said, was against manufacturers and merchandisers of oleomargarine who seek to confuse consumers and make them believe that the product is butter."

Governor Rivers of Georgia, chairman of the conference, said the group's effort was primarily directed toward eliminating "discriminatory freight rates in the south." Pointing to results already obtained in this effort through the Interstate Commerce Commission, he said that the south would not be the only beneficiary but that he felt the southern action was responsible for the commission's call for an investigation of all freight rates in the states east of the Rocky mountains.

I. C. C. CUTS RAIL RATES ON NAVAL STORES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission, by a vote of 6 to 5, today authorized drastic reductions in railroad rates on naval stores from Mississippi points to gulf ports. William E. Lee, one of the dissenters, said he thought the decision might result in "ruinous competition."

displayed emotion when Judge Bradshaw asked her: "You understand the situation, don't you, Virginia—that you and Leroy are brother and sister?" "I don't believe it," she replied with a sob, "but I'll have to accept it."

"Under the law," the court told the girl, "you never were married and, under the law, it is not necessary to annul the marriage, but it might be wise to have annulment proceedings."

Judge Bradshaw condemned laws governing illegitimacy and asserted, "I don't think there is such a thing as an illegitimate child."

He told Virginia that the child she is expecting would be legitimate under Indiana law.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

"WHO ARE THEY?"
A business man writes: "Who are they?", referring to that group of persons in the United States who have assumed the responsibility of running this country under the name of 'The Christian Front.' I do not know. Rather, I should say, all I know about them is what I have read in the papers and magazines. Our chief source of information so far is the FBI and Charles Edward Coughlin. I prefer the interpretation of Mr. Hoover's organization rather than the gentleman of Royal Oak.

We can confidently count upon Mr. Hoover to ferret out the facts and give them to the public. Attorney General Robert Jackson is on record in promising to go through with this latest outbreak of subversive movements in our nation. I don't believe the American people will stand for any monkey business in dealing with these alleged outlaws.

One thing, at least, we may say, these 17 men do not represent the Christian people of the United States. They may represent their conception of Christianity, but they cannot assume to speak for other Christians. Any man, or any group of men, who assumes to announce campaigns of hatred toward Jews or any other group of people immediately proves himself or themselves as utterly incapable of representing Christianity. Any man, or any group of men, who resort to such methods as were employed by these 17 men in conspiring to wage an armed revolution, proves himself or themselves utterly incapable of representing Christianity.

Episcopal Bishop William T. Manning, of New York, states the Christian position quite clearly and strongly when he says: "The

Pull It Down, UMW Cries At Hammer, Sickle Banner

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Confusion broke out at the United Mine Workers' convention late today when a red flag, bearing the hammer and sickle emblem, was lowered over the head of John L. Lewis as the CIO leader addressed delegates during a celebration of the union's 50th birthday.

Delegates leaped to their feet, shouting "Tear it down!" Lewis did not look up as the flag was lowered from the loft above the speakers' platform and then held stationary 10 feet above the stage.

As the flag waved above him, Lewis declared: "The United Mine Workers of America is an American institution. It has but one flag and that is the American flag."

As he finished speaking, the banner was raised out of sight. After the ceremony ended, the delegates remained on their feet. Lewis took the microphone to demand that ushers force them to sit down.

"It appears," he declared, "that someone has attempted to perform a most cowardly, reprehensible and dastardly trick in the midst of our commemorative ceremonies."

"There are no Communists in the United Mine Workers," Lewis said the union would request police authorities to investigate.

Christian religion stands, not for peace at any price, but for righteousness at any cost." True followers of the Lord Jesus Christ believe in open covenants openly arrived at. They believe in the philosophy laid down by Christ when He said: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's." They accept the teachings of the Apostle Paul in the 13th chapter of Romans regarding civil authority and responsibility. They will not be misrepresented by any self-appointed gang, regardless of who they are or what they say and do.

People of Eire spent $37,500,000 on drink, $40,000,000 on tobacco and $5,000,000 on movies and other amusements in the last year.

board and its administration of the act.

"You do believe in the efficacy and the purpose and principles of this Wagner labor relations act?" Representative Healey, Democrat, Massachusetts, asked.

"Yes, we would sooner endure the troubles and punishment we are now forced to undergo and maintain the act, and even its administration, than we would to repeal it or destroy it," Green replied.

His amendments would: 1—Remove the Labor Board's present discretion to determine the type of organization of workers that may bargain collectively with their employers.

2—Permit aggrieved labor unions to appeal board orders in these representation cases directly to the circuit courts of appeals.

All in the Game

—by Jack Tracy

Even more than the kids—and certain grown-ups who still revel in show fights and sculpturing figures—snowfalls always have been hailed with delight by rabbit hunters.

But not this one. Dame Nature exceeded fondest hopes this time and spread a white carpet a bit too deep for the beagle hounds to traverse.

It is an interesting sight, indeed, to watch the short-coupled beagles—natural hunters—try to take the snow in stride. Often they go out of sight and it is necessary to retrieve them.

Majority of rabbit hunters have given up trying until some of it melts. The dogs just can't make it and Brer Rabbit is making himself pretty scarce, anyway.

It was interesting yesterday watching the beagle pack of Policemen Walter Goode and L. C. Jones trying to get around in the snow. In places where there was a crust which bore their weight the beagles did all right.

But in other places where there was no crust, they would bury up to their heads and then fight their way out as the snow scattered in all directions.

So Brer Rabbit is safe from the hounds and probably is leading the cheers for continued snowfall.

Those interested in conservation, however, are hopeful that hunters will not take advantage of rabbits and birds after the snow melts.

They'll be very hungry and will go after feed on a mass scale. It will make for fine hunting. Wholesale slaughter could result. But sportsmen won't slaughter the birds and rabbits. Conservationists aren't worried about them. It's the habitual meat hunter who largely is responsible for the state of affairs in Georgia wild life today that does the damage.

RALPH AND ROXY.

The big man from All-benny shifted in his seat and said, "One of the new stalls is dedicated to Ralph McGill's mule, Roxy."

That brought on some more talk. "What about Roxy?" Ralph McGill asked. "I hear he's dead."

"I can't say for sure," answered the big man, "but we've dedicated a stall in the new barns anyway. Maybe we ought to make it 'R. and R.' Everyone who has been going to the field trials at Albany any length of time knows about Ralph and Roxy."

They do say that there was no question about mistaking him for the lone ranger when he came galloping across fields, but Ralph McGill still insists that Roxy was the best mount a man ever had at a field trial.

A lot of things have been happening in the interest of the Southern Amateur Field Trial Club at All-benny. The city, for instance, gave the club the barns from the old fair grounds. City and county made substantial donations and certain sportsmen kicked in.

So they've transported the material to the new five-acre plot located between the W. C. Potter and L. D. Johnson places, and have constructed barns and kennels that would delight the most finicky sportsmen. A man is now able to quarter his finest saddle horse there and feel good about it.

The barns and kennels have been built in a beautiful pine grove and the southern amateur trials—also the regional trials which will follow the amateur—start from there in the morning and end there in late afternoon. Luncheon stops as usual will be at the little Red Store on Newton road.

An incredible sum of money was spent at All-benny during the filming of scenes of "Biscuit Eater." Hollywood folks never asked the cost of anything and in a period of between six and eight weeks of filming spent half a million dollars there. In addition, around 100 townspeople were hired for character bits.

"Looks like we're going to have two great trials in February," said the big man from All-benny. "We've got a great list of officers and directors now. They include Bob Sealy, president; Ralph McGill, vice president, and Delacey Allen, secretary and treasurer. On the board of directors are Trammell Scott, George Myshrahl, Bob Woodruff, Bob Jones, Charley Jordan, G. C. Hamrick and W. C. Potter."

On Trail of Br'er Rabbit

Policemen L. C. Jones and Walter Goode own a fine pack of beagle hounds between them and they tried them out yesterday in the heavy snow. There was no luck so far as getting on the trail of Br'er Rabbit was concerned, but they had a lot of fun watching the short-

Harry Kelley To Pitch For Minneapolis Club

Ex-Cracker Hurler Ends Holdout Siege; To Work for Sheehan.

Harry Kelley, former Cracker pitcher, has been whipped into line after a slight holdout siege and will pitch for the Minneapolis Millers, managed by Tom Sheehan, another ex-Cracker, this summer. Mike Kelley owns the Millers.

Harry Kelley, according to a story in The Sporting News, figured that he wasn't given the right treatment in being shunted out of the American league from Washington, and it took a bit of talking to get him in the right frame of mind after Harry sportingly stated he would rather play minor league ball in Minneapolis than any other place. (Editor's note: That's what Harry said when he first came to Atlanta). Kelley became Miller property in the deal sending Shortstop Jimmy Pofahl to the Senators.

Johnson Will Run For Representative

ROCKVILLE, Md., Jan. 25.—(P) Walter Johnson, the American League speedball king of other days, is going to try to come back in Washington—as a congressman. Johnson, now a Montgomery county commissioner, announced tonight his candidacy for the Republican nomination for representative from the sixth Maryland district. The seat is now held by William D. Egan, Democrat.

Y. M. C. A. Triangles Cancel Two Games

Two road games for the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. Triangles this week end were canceled by Coach Sol Marshall because of the weather. The Triangles and A. G. Rhodes girls' team were to have played a double-header at Milledge, Ga., Friday night. Manager James Clouds of the Milledge A. C. has agreed to play the contests on Friday, February 9. The Triangles and the Phillips-Browne girls were to have played the Mableton High school at Mableton, Ga., on Saturday night. The games will be rescheduled at a later date.

Alf Anderson, who played with Savannah in the Sally league last season, has been keeping his throwing arm in shape by bowling on the downtown alleys during the cold weather.

A group of bowlers from the Atlanta Gas Light Company, rolling together Monday evening included J. O. Fuller, D. C. Wade, W. N. Morris, Jim Wood, J. L. Townsend, John Mauldin and W. S. Dee as they toppled the little pins for spares and heavy counts.

Miss Ann Ashurst and Dave Kilgore, of the Georgia Junior College league, signed Thursday to bowl in the mixed doubles handicap tournament on the downtown alleys Saturday afternoon and evening, with a predicted entry of 50 couples scheduled to compete for the several cash awards. Other new entries include Mrs. Blick and W. F. Lowry, Grace Mize and Al Turner, Tillie Jordan and Ed Pendley, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Freeman and Evelyn Bozardt and Roy Pendleton. Games are scheduled at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:30 o'clock in the evening. This contest is open to all bowlers.

VIRLYN MOORE, JOHNSTON PLAY AGAINST BEARS

Dixie Conference Five Extended Georgia Bulldogs; Fast Game Seen.

The Atlanta Crackers, who have won 17 games against strong teams from four states this season, will be at full strength for tonight's test with the fast-moving Mercer Bears at Sports arena. Bo Johnston and Virlyn Moore, who missed the game with the Celtics at Savannah Wednesday night because flying conditions prevented Cracker Owner L. C. Warren from taking his plane down for the WARLICK battle, will be in there tonight, giving Shep Lauter his strongest lineup. Moore will play at forward, Johnston center. Bob Lieb and Gene Warlick will start at guards. Fred Bradford will handle the other forward job.

Mercer, from all accounts, boasts one of its strongest fives in recent years. Early in the season the Bears invaded Athens and held the Georgia Bulldogs to a 51-41 margin, quite an accomplishment in view of the disadvantage faced by any quintet on foreign courts. The Bears also swamped University of Chattanooga and have beaten several strong independent teams. Jimmy Slocum's outfit is rated a strong Dixie conference contender. Last season Mercer slipped into town and landed Georgia Tech a licking. Shep Lauter has warned his high-powered Crackers that they may expect a busy evening from the Collegians.

The Crackers are the only team to defeat the New York Celtics this year, and are regarded by court magicians as the finest club they ever met in the south. Many cities are bidding for Cracker-Celtic games, including Birmingham, New Orleans and Chattanooga. It is likely the Atlanta team will tour the east and north for several weeks in February.

On Sunday, the strong Peerless team from Chattanooga invades Sports arena.

Tonight's game will start at 8:30. There will be a good preliminary at 7:15 p. m.

WRESTLING MEET IS OPEN TO ALL

All grapplers and would-be grapplers who would like to earn a medal and a name for themselves are invited to enter the city-wide amateur wrestling tournament January 26 and 27 at the Y. M. C. A.

Anyone who lives in Atlanta may enter, regardless of whether or not he is a member of the Y. Eight different weights will be held, beginning at 118 pounds and going through the heavyweight division. Sixteen medals will be given away, a first and second place medal for each weight.

Free instruction in wrestling is being given now at the Y for any who care to come down. A free pass to the physical department may be secured from Oscar Brock, or the office of the Y. The only requirements are 5 cents a day towel fee and 25 cents fee to enter the tournament.

Tech High, G. M. A. Cagers Meet This Afternoon at 3 O'Clock

COLUMBUS HERE FOR FIRST TIME SATURDAY NIGHT

Improved Cadets Hope to Better Record Against Smities Today.

By ROY WHITE.

Atlanta's only prep sporting event of the week thus far will be played at 3 o'clock this afternoon when Tech High and G. M. A. battle in the semi-final round of the Big Seven basketball race.

One round behind and prospects for more delay, Coach Sidney Scarborough of Tech High, and Sam Burbage, of G. M. A., decided to play this afternoon and catch up on the other game next week, if possible.

Columbus, the league's unbeaten leader, with four victories in the Big Seven, and a half dozen outside victories, will make its first appearance of the season here Saturday night against Commercial in a double-header on the Henry Grady court. The game was moved up from tonight's semi-final round.

Boys' High, trailing Columbus by a half game, will play North Fulton, one of the leaders in the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference in the other half of Saturday's twin bill.

Canton plays Jordan on the Columbus court in the other game scheduled for the semi-final round. Boys' High drew an open date.

G. M. A. with only one victory in four starts, has shown a decided improvement in its last two games, and will seek to climb out of the lower division of the standings in the next few games.

The Cadets, after considerable experimenting in the first few games, have found a combination of Ed Oates and Carl Anderson, forwards, Solley, center and Finkbeiner and Poole, guards, working well together. That group will face Tech High this afternoon.

Tech High will again lineup with a veteran combination of Grady Ammons, and Jack Pounds, forwards; Weeks, center, and Charlie Bowen and Ed Corbett, guards. The Smithies have lost only to Columbus at Columbus.

Tech High had to fight an overtime victory over Jordan last Friday night to give Coach Sidney Scarborough his first win since taking over the reins of Tech High.

Meanwhile, all other activities have ceased with the closing of schools until next week, but students at both Boys' High and Tech High are looking forward to next Tuesday night's battle between the bitter Parkway Drive rivals.

It's the final game of the first half race.

Boys' High, Savannah Bouts Are Postponed

It's great weather for snowball fights, but much too cold for spectators to watch hand-to-hand combats, so Boys' High's opening boxing matches with Savannah High scheduled for tonight have been postponed.

A tentative date has been set for next Thursday night in the Henry Grady gymnasium. Definite announcement on the program will be made Saturday.

Boys' High has a senior team and a series of matches already have been arranged with Charlotte, G. M. A., Tech High and Decatur, in addition to the annual G. I. A. A. tournament.

Richmond Football Aces Buck Snow, Aid Coach's Wife

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 25.—(P)—Six University of Richmond football players bucked their way four miles through waist-high snowdrifts yesterday in an off-season mercy play for the wife of Coach Glenn F. Thistlethwaite.

Mrs. Thistlethwaite, ill since last December, suffered a relapse recently and needed blood transfusions. Coach Thistlethwaite was the donor twice. Physicians at Stuart Circle hospital said Mrs. Thistlethwaite had grown weaker and needed another transfusion.

Six members of the football team heard of her plight, struck out from the snowbound campus and trudged over four miles of drift roads and streets to the hospital.

Frank Baker, of Pittsburgh, a sophomore blocking back last year, had the required type 2 blood and was accepted at the hospital.

Physicians reported Mrs. Thistlethwaite was improving today.

Southern Directors To Meet Saturday

Southern league directors will hold the annual schedule meeting Saturday morning at Chattanooga. The meeting automatically is held in the town of the pennant winner and so Joe Engel is host.

Big item of the meeting is to be adoption of the playing schedule for 1940. If there is to be any other business pertaining to the league it has not been revealed.

League President Trammell Scott, and President Carl Mann and Secretary Jasper Donaldson, of the Crackers, leave this morning for the meeting.

Won't Sign for Same Salary, Says Medwick

Joe Is Not Holdout Because He Hasn't Seen Contract.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 25.—(P)—You can't refuse to sign a contract until you get one, so Joe Medwick, of the St. Louis Cardinals, is not a holdout.

Here for a brief vacation prior to the start of spring training, Medwick said today he hasn't given much thought to his 1940 salary because he hasn't received a contract and doesn't know what the Cardinals intend to offer him.

"I had one conference regarding salary before I left St. Louis for Florida," Joe explained. "and they asked me if I would accept the same terms I signed for last year. I said no. That ended the conference. They didn't make me an offer, so I came south and haven't heard from them since."

Medwick said he was a holdout last spring but finally accepted a cut because the Cardinals had lost money in 1939.

"Last year, though," he adds, "I batted .332, knocked in 115 runs and the club made money. This

2 DOWN AT 17TH, MARION RALLIES TO BEAT HICKS

Jane Cothran Loser by 2-1 Score; Finals To Be 36 Holes.

By DOT KIRBY.

PUNTA GORDA COUNTRY CLUB, Jan. 25.—As I thought, the Miley-Hicks match turned out to be very exciting and interesting from the gallery standpoint.

It was about as close as could be. At the end of the first nine holes Miley was one down. They were out in about the same scores, Hicks taking the lead by one stroke with a fine 38 to Miley's 39. Elizabeth started out as if she really meant business. She parred the first, birdied the second and third, and then missed a very short putt on the fourth to lose the hole.

On the back side they both seemed to settle down, and not a hole on that nine was halved. It was one of those kind of matches where you never know who is going to be the winner until the last putt is safely in the bottom of the cup.

MILEY TWO DOWN. Coming to the 17th Miley was two down and only two holes left. It was here that I thought as did Elizabeth that she really lost the match. Miley was over the green in two and after having missed her second shot Hicks also went over the green with her third. It was rather unusual, that where Elizabeth won her match from me yesterday she lost it to Marion today. As I was saying, though, the 17th was taken by Miley. Then came the prize hole of the day—the 18th—where Marion threw a birdie at Elizabeth. They halved the 19th and Marion shot another birdie on the 20th and that was the end of a very hard-fought match.

They both played nice golf and came in with the same scores of 79 apiece.

In the other round between Clara Callender and Jane Cothran, Clara was the victor by 2 and 1. This match was also very close all the way around, but Clara had her shots going just a bit better than did Jane. Jane said she couldn't sink the six-foot putt.

HAS GOOD BUILD. Clara is built well for a good golfer. She is about six feet tall and weighs 150 pounds, so you see all she has to do really is just swing and the ball will go some. Tomorrow she and Miley will meet in the 36-hole final round.

They are both wonderful putters and they say the final strokes are decided on the greens so we shall see what we shall see in the morning. There is going to be a lot of money in the prize money and all the golfers so I think perhaps I had better quit this rambling and get set for the bird.

Racing Roundup

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Connaught, wearing the colors of the Shady Side Farm of Theodore Mueller, raced to a sixth place in the featured Bartow half-length over the heavily favored Red Dock from the Mrs. Payne Whitney stable.

Connaught, making his first start since early in November, was overlooked by the bettors and paid $8, despite the fact that in his last appearance he won a one-mile handicap at Churchill Downs with the speedy little filly, Little Risk, among the victors. Last summer he also scored in the Hawthorne Juvenile hand-cap.

Red Dock was backed down to 13-20 and had to take second as Bramham and Moser's Nightland was third in the seven furlong test for three-year-olds.

The winner's time was 1:26 4-5 over a racing strip not yet completely dried out from the recent rains.

Connaught dashed right to the front with Red Dock keeping company until the field swung into the stretch, then Connaught opened up daylight and though Red Dock closed that up, he was unable to overtake the fine-conditioned winner.

A driving finish in which second and third had to be decided by a photo. Hiddenite, Mrs. J. Chesney's six-year-old gelding, won the featured mile and 70 yards sixth race at the Fair Grounds, N. Y. Brown's King was named second-place winner and E. N. Bisso's Whippoorwill got the show place.

The winner completed the distance in 1:46 3-5 and paid $112. After making his debut at the Fair Grounds, he was under the wire after being third at the head of the stretch.

WILLIAM WHITE IS ELECTED NEW HOWARD COACH

Birmingham High Mentor Gets 5-Year Pact, Replacing Bancroft.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 25.—(P)—President Harwell G. Davis, of Howard College, announced selection today of William (Cannonball) White as head football coach succeeding Billy Bancroft, who resigned last week.

White, now coach at Ramsay (Birmingham) High school, was signed under a five-year contract, Davis said. The salary was not announced.

The new Howard coach was a guard at Tennessee under the late John Bender and M. B. Banks, finishing in 1922.

During 18 years of high school coaching, he produced five undefeated teams and won an Alabama high school championship and the Birmingham city league championship four times.

After graduation from Tennessee, White went to Hartsville, Tenn., where he produced an undefeated team. Other coaching assignments were at Anniston, Ala.; Ensley, where he won the Alabama and city championships with an undefeated, untied eleven, Brunswick, Ga., and Bessemer, Alabama.

He came to Ramsay High when the school was established in 1930, winning only one game his first year. In the 10-year period at Ramsay, however, White won city championships in 1932 and 1934 and tied for the title in 1937. His 1939 eleven was unbeaten on the field, but forfeited a game.

Lombardi Learns What Others Knew. LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.—Ernie Lombardi has learned, these last few months, what a handful of other luckless ball players learned before him; that there is nothing so shattering to a player's reputation as a lapse, however brief, in a World Series game.

Every time anybody mentions the World Series of last fall the recollection of Lombardi lying at the plate in the final game while Joe DiMaggio skipped around him pops into his mind. Stories and wisecracks about the incident have been countless. In the telling and retelling, it has been magnified and distorted. To hear some versions of it, you would think Ernie had been stretched out on the ground for five minutes. Actually he was there for only a few seconds.

But the fierce white light that beats down on World Series players throws them into such bold relief that they have to nod for a moment and their fate is sealed forever. No matter what they may have done before or what they may do in the years to come they will be remembered chiefly for that moment in which they failed in a World Series.

Lombardi Learns What Others Knew.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.—Ernie Lombardi has learned, these last few months, what a handful of other luckless ball players learned before him; that there is nothing so shattering to a player's reputation as a lapse, however brief, in a World Series game.

Every time anybody mentions the World Series of last fall the recollection of Lombardi lying at the plate in the final game while Joe DiMaggio skipped around him pops into his mind. Stories and wisecracks about the incident have been countless. In the telling and retelling, it has been magnified and distorted. To hear some versions of it, you would think Ernie had been stretched out on the ground for five minutes. Actually he was there for only a few seconds.

But the fierce white light that beats down on World Series players throws them into such bold relief that they have to nod for a moment and their fate is sealed forever. No matter what they may have done before or what they may do in the years to come they will be remembered chiefly for that moment in which they failed in a World Series.

ONE-DAY MEET.

ALBANY, Ga., Jan. 25.—(P)—Barring snow, Albany will raise part of its quota for the infantile paralysis fund with a one-day golf tournament over the Radium Springs golf course Sunday. Many entries already have been received.

A Fly Ball Dropped.

You remember Fred Snodgrass, of course. He was the Giant outfielder who dropped a fly ball in the 1912 World Series and gave the Red Sox an opening through which they crashed through to win.

Remember anything else about him? Well, he ranked with the best outfielders that ever wore a Giant uniform. He was a good hitter, a fine base runner and a first-class defensive player. He helped the Giants tremendously through three pennant-winning drives. He was the type of ball player John McGraw always admired and always had about him—smart, alert, aggressive, and with high courage.

In the four or five years he was with the Giants he dropped very few fly balls. But he dropped one that they'll never let him forget.

The Pursuit of Collins.

Heinie Zimmerman was one of the great third basemen. He came swinging up with the Cubs—a youngster with Everett Tinker. Chance and the rest of that hard-bitten crew. As they faded, he came on. He became the Great Zim. In a day when, because of the less lively ball, a third baseman had a lot to do around the bag, Heinie did it all—and with a superb grace seldom equaled. He was a powerful hitter, dangerous in the pinches and drove hundreds of runs across the plate for the Cubs and, later, for the Giants, as the years rolled along.

And all that most persons remember about him is that in the 1917 World Series between the Giants and the White Sox he chased Eddie Collins across the plate. Nobody even bothers to remember that Zim had to chase Collins because there was nobody at the plate to take a throw. Rube Evers, the pitcher, had started the play by grabbing a ball hit back at him and throwing to Zim to hang Collins up on the line between third base and the plate—and then stopped to watch the run-down from a point between the box and third base. Bill Riden, the catcher, having closed up on Collins, stepped out of the way as Collins made a break for the plate. Walter Holke, the first baseman, remained at his post, making no move to cover the plate.

Zim, frankly not the smartest

Your Own Horoscope for Jan. 26th

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between: March 21 and April 19 (ARIES) Previous to 10:25 a. m. an excellent time to deal with the public and ventures where fact and diplomacy are necessary. Between 10:25 a. m. and 1:20 p. m. is a favorable time to seek personal advancement. April 20 and May 20 (TAURUS) Artistic ideas, social affairs, beautifying parties, entertaining and business in connection with such things are affected favorably before 2:33 p. m. After 2:33 p. m. favors seeking favors and dealings with people at the head of affairs. May 21 and June 20 (GEMINI) Between 9 a. m. and 9:29 p. m. favors dealing with people who have the broad viewpoint and is an auspicious period for progress in those things that require quick mentality. After 9:29 p. m. caution should be observed around liquids and in secret affairs. June 21 and July 22 (CANCER) Today indicates a time when the unexpected is likely to happen and your best-laid plans are apt to go wrong if launched now. This is not a day to count too strongly on things going your way. July 23 and August 22 (LEO) Previous to 2:40 p. m. your energy may be turned into useful channels with the expectations that your activities will be well received. At this time deal with people of a martial temperament, be personally aggressive and promote activities relating to machinery, metal, iron and steel. August 23 and September 22 (VIRGO) Previous to 3:16 p. m. you will have very active mental processes, which will turn your thoughts into unexpected ways of doing things. September 23 and October 22 (LIBRA) Before 2:30 p. m. you will be inspired to enter into affairs that are original and quick and life may be moving very fast around you. Do not allow yourself to be thrown off balance. Between 2:30 p. m. and 7:33 p. m. attend to matters that require persistence. (SCORPIO) There will be a lessening of tension both in your personal feelings and in dealings with others today. Before 9:11 p. m. you can deal with serious people advantageously. November 23 and December 21 (SAGITTARIUS) Affairs should be previous to 7:17 a. m. are likely to prove strenuous, or encounter sterner responsibilities than appeared on the surface. Between 7:17 a. m. and 6:51 p. m. your judgment regarding the future outcome of your interests will have a sound basis. December 22 and January 19 (CAPRICORN) Before 11:44 a. m. you are likely to feel impatient, nervous and irritable, therefore guard against a feeling of touchiness. Not an especially auspicious time for beginnings. Between 11:44 a. m. and 1:20 p. m. appears to be the best part of the day and favors general business activity, financial, literary and educational matters. January 20 and February 18 (AQUARIUS) A dull mental outlook today tends toward dissatisfaction, but by giving attention to hard work, those things you have been putting off, some extremely effective results may be achieved. February 19 and March 20 (PISCES) If a tendency to bite off more than you can chew is held in check today unusual developments may be attained in business, sports, buying and selling, studying and professional activities. PRESIDENT OFFERS OLIVE BRANCH TO RUSSELL, GEORGE Makes Open Move Toward Breaking Patronage Deadlock by Renominating Charles H. Cox.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—President Roosevelt today made an open move toward breaking the long-standing deadlock over Georgia patronage by sending to the Senate the renomination of Charles H. Cox, of Atlanta, as United States marshal for the northern district of the state.

Sponsored by Senator Richard B. Russell, Marshal Cox's term expired about a year ago and several efforts since then to gain his reappointment had met with failure.

No Official Word
While no official word was ever forthcoming, reports in administration circles linked the delay with the failure of Senator Russell to join forces with New Deal elements in the attempted White House purge of Senator George in the Georgia primaries of 1938.

One of Senator George's patronage appointees, Howell Cone, of Statesboro, now serving as collector of customs at Savannah, has been held up similarly. The Cone term also expired approximately a year ago and for a time it was understood that President Roosevelt was prepared to name someone else as his successor.

First Intimation
The first intimation that the Georgia patronage situation was to be cleared up came during the special session in the fall, which saw both Senator George and Senator Russell actively aligned with the President's proposal for revising the neutrality law.

Information then was that the administration patronage heads were ready to reappoint both Cone and Cox in a move toward restoring peace in the Democratic organization of Georgia, left somewhat torn by the 1938 purge campaign which saw President Roosevelt call for the senior Senator's defeat in a speech delivered at Barnesville.

Cox Nomination
Now that the Cox nomination has been sent in, it would not be surprising to see a similar announcement soon regarding Collector Cone. Although the latter is credited with being a George appointee, he holds the endorsement of both of the Georgia Senators.

So far as is known, Senator George has not been to the White House since the 1938 purge campaign, but his relations with the President have been on a somewhat improved tone in recent months. Indicating a disposition to let bygones be bygones, the President addressed the senator a personal note during his hospital confinement after a serious eye operation last summer.

Senator Russell had no comment on today's move beyond the informal statement he naturally was pleased and satisfied of Marshal Cox's ability to render further useful service.

TARDY TAG PENALTY STARTS FEBRUARY 1

Only 100,000 Plates Sold So Far, Head Says in Warning to Drivers.

Penalties for tardy purchase of 1940 automobile license tags will go into effect at midnight February 1, Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head warned yesterday as the motor vehicle division announced that tag sales thus far have totaled slightly more than 100,000.

"Governor Rivers has assured us there will be no extension for tag buying unless it is requested by the revenue department and we do not plan to ask it," Head said. "Some motorists feel that because of the bad weather they should be given an extension but more than 95 per cent of the tags are bought by mail and we are equipped to handle requests as they are received."

Head said tag sales this year were still ahead of last year when only 80,000 tags were sold up to January 25. He added, however, that only about 25 per cent of the cars, trucks and buses have been equipped with new tags thus far.

Pork Is Cold Weather Meat

Pork is receiving much attention nowadays. There are Peanut Pork Weeks and National Pork Weeks and other movements instigated by responsible persons and organizations for quite worthy purposes to get you, Mrs. Home-maker, to serve more pork while it is in season.

To put the matter briefly, pork is plentiful and cheap, and pork is one of the chief farm products of the south. Many farmers rely upon the sale of hogs to bring in some much needed cash during winter months. I shall not deliver a lecture on the economics of the agricultural south, but shall merely remind you that a very wise man once said, "As agriculture goes, so goes the south." And nobody has proved that that isn't true.

So it seems to me that since pork is such a very good meat, and that in helping ourselves to tasty pork dishes, we are helping not only ourselves but others with whom our economic life is very closely tied, we might serve pork often now for a while.

For Sunday dinner I am suggesting a rolled pork shoulder with noodles flavored with the roast's drippings. Both inexpensive and good, is this roast and it carves prettily enough for a company dinner.

Cooking Pork.

When properly cooked, pork is perfectly digestible and its high fat content makes it a fine meat for cold weather. Our bodies need more fat for heating. But to be properly cooked pork must be cooked slowly and to well done stage. Chops, sausages, or even bacon should not be slapped hurriedly into a hot pan and sizzled fast as it can to some degree to edible brownness. Cook all pork slowly and cook it thoroughly. Allow 30 minutes for cooking fresh sausages and 40 to 45 minutes a pound for cooking pork roast.

Rolls Pork Shoulder.

For this roast have the retailer bone and roll a fresh picnic shoulder, from which the hock has been removed. Season the meat with salt and pepper. Place on a rack in an uncovered pan, without adding water, and roast it in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, allowing 40 to 45 minutes to the pound. The noodles are boiled, as directed on the package, in rapidly boiling salted water until tender. Drain and lightly flavor noodles with gravy made from the drippings in the roasting pan. Serve around the rolled pork roast.

Pork, roasted on a rack and thoroughly cooked will not be too fatty for even the young members of the family to enjoy.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION FOOD PARADE

Edited by SALLY SAVER

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 26, 1940.

Colorful Menus Brighten Dull Days

Always hostesses are looking for ideas for "different" luncheons. Last time we entertained the club we served this or that and now that it's time to have them again and we would like so much to have something new. The foods suggested below aren't new, but perhaps the combinations may be new to you. At any rate you'll find that no guest will be interested in dieting the day these luncheons are presented:

Menu No. 1.

Cream of Mushroom Soup
Chicken-Tomato Aspic Salad
Celery Hearts
Hot Ripe Olives or spiced Cucumber Rings Mince-meat Tart
Hot Tea or Coffee

In making the chicken salad make an aspic jelly using equal parts of chicken stock and tomato juice. Mix a few chopped salted almonds with the chicken and mold in individual molds which will look pretty when turned out on lettuce.

Menu No. 2.

Ham Rolls
Escaloped Potatoes
Celery, Pickles, Olives
Fruit Salad
Toasted Crackers
Coffee

Ham rolls are made from thin slices of boiled ham spread with a thick layer of cream cheese highly seasoned with horseradish and chopped olives. These are rolled and fastened with tooth picks. Serve two on each plate with a portion of piping hot scalloped potatoes.

An Easy Pudding.

Desserts for small children are a special problem. Here is an easy one that children will love and the other members of the family will like it, too.

Apricot Jam Pudding.

3 slices white bread
Butter
1-3 cup apricot jam
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon sugar
Dash of salt
2 cups milk, scalded
1-4 cup shredded coconut

Remove crusts from bread; spread with butter and jam and cut each slice in half. Line bottom and sides of buttered baking dish with bread. Combine eggs, sugar and salt; add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Pour over bread. Place dish in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven 350 degrees 30 minutes. Then sprinkle coconut over pudding and continue baking 25 or 30 minutes longer or until done. Serves 6.

Prize Winning Recipes For This Week

A prize of $1 each is awarded for recipes printed in this column every Friday. Address recipes to The Constitution or to Sally Saver, with your name and address written plainly on each sheet.

Brown Onion Soup.

Submitted by Mrs. C. C. Lane,
Blakely, Ga.

1 cup minced onion
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
2 bouillon cubes
2 cups boiling water
1 cup milk
1-4 teaspoon salt

Brown onions in butter or margarine. Remove from fire, add flour and salt, stirring until blended. Combine bouillon cubes and boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add to onion mixture. Cook, stirring until thickened. Add milk, heat to boiling and serve at once.

Easy Light Rolls.

Submitted by Mrs. Sam A. Dailey, Mountville, Ga.

1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
1 cake yeast
2-3 cup lukewarm water

Sift about 3 cups flour. Work in shortening as for making biscuits. Dissolve yeast in warm water. Beat egg, sugar and salt together and add to flour alternately with the water mixture. Use enough flour to make a stiff dough. Roll about 1-4 inch thick and cut. Place in greased pan and brush lightly with melted butter. Put in a warm place and let rise for about 3 hours and they are ready to bake.

Nut Cakes.

Submitted by Mrs. Corinne B. Nolan, Morrow, Ga.

1-4 cup butter
1-2 cup sugar
2 eggs

Bright Ideas From Readers

Sitting on the receiving end of a stream of mail which flows steadily in from the center of the homes of our readers one gets a pretty clear picture of what goes on there. Heartening it is to realize the interest in homemaking which, it seems to me, shows no signs of diminishing in spite of the dark things some philosophers have been telling us about home life. Some day, perhaps, we'll just take the space reserved for cooking helps and print some of the letters which come to us (with your permission, of course.)

Several bright ideas sent in during this week I am pleased to pass on to you here and now:

Says Mrs. Annie Butler, 1171 Eggleston, S. W., Atlanta:

"To make delicious appetizers, roll left over pie crust thin, cut in small rounds, put half a teaspoon of sardine, salmon or minced him in the center of each and fold over into turnovers. Bake and serve hot."

And Miss Ruth Stocks, 673 Boulevard, N. E., writes sagely: "When making apricot marmalade from dried fruit you need not trouble to press the fruit through the colander. Soak apricots overnight in just enough water to cover. Next day snip the fruit into small pieces, add the juice in which they were soaked and sugar in proportion, 3-4 cup sugar to 1 cup fruit. Cook until desired consistency."

Again: "Do you use the outside leaves of cabbage and lettuce? The green leaves are richest in minerals and some of the vitamins. They will look all right, too, when carefully washed and finely shredded."

Spinach Salad.

Submitted by Mrs. John Allen,
529 Boulevard, N. E., Atlanta.

1-2 lb. uncooked spinach, finely chopped

1 medium onion, minced
4 tablespoons celery, finely chopped
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
Salt to taste
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3-4 cup salad dressing
Chill salad ingredients and toss lightly. Add lemon juice to dressing and mix well with salad greens just before serving.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

You'd never think of wearing the same frock day in and day out with precisely the same accessories, and never a change. Like clothes, foods, too, need a change. Perhaps the dish will be made by the same favorite recipe many times, but then it need not be served in the same fashion with exactly the same accessories every time. Here are some suggestions for "dressing up" your foods:

Meat Loaf.

Meat loaf has quite a different appearance when it is baked in a ring mold, turned out on a hot platter and the center filled with creamed mushrooms, or with buttered lima beans sprinkled with minced parsley.

Left-Over Sandwiches.

Dip left-over sandwiches or stale bread slices in an egg-and-milk mixture—one egg beaten and mixed with 3-4 cup milk—then saute in hot fat until a golden brown on each side. Garnish with half a spiced peach or with browned pineapple rings or any tart jelly or jam and serve piping hot. This makes a good luncheon or supper dish. Serve with hot tea or coffee.

Sweet Potatoes.

Peel sweet potatoes and boil until tender in salted water. Drain and mash and season with butter, salt, pepper and enough cream or milk to moisten. When cool enough to handle, shape into small balls about an inch in diameter. Chop pecans very fine and mix with 1-2 cup cold water. Roll the potato balls in this mixture, place on a greased pan and brown in a quick oven. Serve with roasts, chicken or ham.

Savory Sauce.

A savory sauce, fine for croquettes, is made in this way: Melt three tablespoons butter or margarine and add one tablespoon minced onion, one tablespoon minced parsley and one tablespoon chopped pimiento. Cook for five minutes over a slow fire, then add 1-4 cups cold water. Stir until boiling, season with 3-4 teaspoon salt, a little pepper, one teaspoon vinegar, 1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire and 1-2 teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Spiced Tomatoes.

Dried beans and other rather

Pie Is Popular As Man's Dessert

Men love pie, and lots of women and children do, too. Then why not try these pies soon? They offer new ways of getting healthful fruits into the diet.

Raisin Pie.

1 egg, well beaten
1-4 cup granulated sugar
1-4 cup raisins
1-4 cup molasses
1-4 cup sour milk or buttermilk
1 cup raisins, chopped
Combine first seven ingredients and beat thoroughly. Add mo-

Fig-Apple Pie.

This is a delightful combination, not very well known, but quite worth knowing.
1 cup dried figs
3 apples
1-2 cup granulated sugar
1-2 cup raisins
1-2 cup molasses
1-2 cup sour milk or buttermilk
1 cup raisins, chopped

Cheese Pancakes

Try cheese pancakes for lunch some day, they are easy to make and a pleasant change from the everyday variety. Sift 1 cup prepared pancake flour and mix with 1-2 cup grated American cheese. Add 1 cup milk, a little at a time and mix to a smooth batter. Cook on hot griddle and serve with syrup, jam or jelly.

Golden Fish Flakes.

Use two tablespoons butter or margarine, three tablespoons flour,

Beef Tips With Vegetables

A short way to a good stew with vegetables and dumplings is this: add condensed vegetable soup to your meat and thickened stock! Follow these directions:
2 tablespoons shortening
1 pound beef cut in small pieces
3 cups water
2 1-2 tablespoons flour mixed with 1-4 cup water
2 cans condensed vegetable soup
Brown meat in fat, add water and simmer until meat is tender, about 1 1-2 hours. Add flour mixed with cold water and cook, stirring until stock is thickened. Add vegetable soup. Drop dumplings on top of hot stew and steam for 12-15 minutes longer.

Sausage Patties on Pineapple Rings.

For breakfast or supper try this delectable dish of sausage patties fried slowly to a golden brown and each one capping a brown-tipped pineapple slice. The pineapple flavor enhances the pork and the pork enhances the pineapple.

Fry sausage slowly until well done, turning often. Saute pineapple slices in a little fat or broil them, after brushing lightly with butter, until delicately browned about the edges. Serve as pictured, together with a steaming mound of grits or rice.

Soup Making Is an Art

The making of a good soup is a real test of culinary art, and the requisites are really obvious—the soup must be well flavored, it must have a definite point of interest, and it must be hot. (We are talking now of winter soups.) Cream soup should be as smooth as velvet; neither too thick nor too thin; clear soups should be clear and contain an attractive garnish; thick soups should be full flavored but not gummy.

What makes soup "different"? Mostly the combination of ingredients. Try, for instance the following which is of Spanish origin. I don't really know what its name is, its sort of a vegetable soup served with a poached egg and grated cheese. Try it on a cold night. Here is the recipe:

Put 1 quart of water on to boil and when boiling add 1 1-2 cups finely cut celery, 1-2 cup thinly sliced onions, and 1 green pepper cut in shreds and the seeds discarded. If you happen to have a steak bone or the bones from a roast in the ice box add them; if not use bouillon cubes—three of them. Boil gently for 25 minutes, then add 2 cups canned tomatoes and enough salt and pepper to season. If you have used bouillon cubes, be careful of the salt. Simmer for 15 minutes longer and then remove any bones. In the meantime have ready cooked some boiled rice, enough to allow a half cupful of cooked rice for each portion. Shape this into a mound in each hot soup plate and place a poached egg on the rice and sprinkle the egg with a generous amount of grated Parmesan cheese. Fill the plates with the boiling soup and serve at once. Serves 6.

WPA Lay-Off Regulation Hampers Commodity Distribution, Deen Says

State Welfare Director Asks Georgia Delegation in Congress to Seek Amendment Exempting Workers Handling Surplus Products From 30-Day Suspension.

Georgia's whole program of the distribution of surplus commodities to 400,000 people who depend upon the food and clothing so provided for their existence is being seriously hampered by the new law which requires that every person who has been working on WPA for 18 consecutive months be laid off for a period of 30 days, Braswell Deen, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, said yesterday.

Pointing out that food distribution throughout the whole state is handled by 450 WPA workers whose training for the job makes them hard to replace when laid off, Mr. Deen yesterday sent a telegram to the Georgia delegation at Washington asking that they seek an amendment to the law exempting WPA workers engaged in commodity distribution from the 18-month lay-off rule.

Special Talent Required. "Proper distribution of commodities under stringent government rules requires a man of high talent and a knowledge of book-keeping and accounting," Mr. Deen pointed out. "When such a man is laid off it is exceedingly hard to replace him and the system of distribution is seriously hampered by his loss."

"Since it is so vitally important that the distribution of these commodities, which actually is a means of subsistence for many, be kept flowing smoothly, we feel justified in asking that the law be amended to exempt commodity distributors. "We can get these same people back eventually. But they must remain off the rolls 30 days and re-apply again. By that time there are many ahead of them who must be given a chance on the job."

Some Distribution Suspended. "In some counties there are no qualified people at all, except those laid off. When this happens we have to shut down commodity distribution in that county until the man who can handle the job waits his 30 days and becomes eligible again."

Mr. Deen's telegram, which was sent to Senators George and Russell and to Representatives Carl Vinson and Robert Ramspeck, follows: "Operation of the commodity distribution project is seriously hampered by the lay-off of WPA workers under the 18 consecutive months employment law."

"The commodity distribution program is one of the most beneficial and important, both to farmers in removing their surplus commodities and in giving prompt and immediate food supplies and clothing to needy persons."

"We sincerely believe the commodities project should be exempted from the 30-day lay-off of WPA employees."

"Truck drivers, commodity distributors and clerks operating commodity projects are named to us by WPA. If possible call a meeting of the Georgia delegation and present the matter to them."

87 PCT. LAID OFF BY WPA STILL IDLE

Many Subsisting on Less Than $5 a Week, Harrington Asserts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(P)—The Work Projects Administration, reported today that more than 87 per cent of the 775,000 workers dropped from WPA rolls last summer under the 18-month dismissal rule had no jobs in November in spite of the fact that their dismissals occurred during a period of sharply rising industrial activity.

Of those who had obtained jobs as much as three months after dismissal by WPA, said the report, approximately one-half were earning less than the security wage which WPA had paid them.

Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, told Representative Woodrum, Democrat, Virginia, member of the house appropriations committee, that of the 87 per cent who had not found jobs, 28 per cent were on local relief rolls, 27 per cent had been reassigned to WPA, and 32 per cent were without public support of any kind except surplus commodities.

"In none of the 23 cities surveyed," he reported, "was the average income of this group (including wages of those privately employed, relief grants, and the value of food, fuel and clothing distributed) as much as $14 a week. In 10 of the 23 cities it was less than $5. More than 100,000 of all those dismissed had no income whatever in the two weeks preceding the survey."

CAMP FIRE LASSIES TO SELL DOUGHNUTS

800 in Atlanta Will Launch 14th Annual Drive Tomorrow.

Eight hundred Atlanta Camp Fire Girls will launch their fourteenth annual "Do-Nut Drive" tomorrow, Albert Waldon, general chairman, announced yesterday.

The 1940 quota has been set at 16,000 dozen doughnuts, Mr. Waldon said. The purpose of this year's drive is to build a swimming pool at Camp Toccoa, the Camp Fire Girls' camp located near Toccoa.

Funds from previous drives have been used to improve camp buildings and construct a new dam for the lake. The proposed swimming pool would be used in conjunction with the lake for swimming and life saving classes.

The girl selling the largest number of doughnuts this year will be given a two-week vacation at the camp this summer, according to Mr. Waldon. All girls selling 200 dozen or more will be given one free week. Other special awards will be given those who sell 50 or more dozen.

FLORIDA GIRL SEES FIRST SNOW HERE Makes Special Trip for That Purpose.

A 9-year-old girl who came all the way from Jacksonville, Fla., to Atlanta to see her first snow returned last night to the land of sunshine and palm trees.

She is Fay Carroll Creech, niece of Mrs. D. W. Camp, of 937 Boulevard, S. E., and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Creech, of Jacksonville.

After Atlanta's record snow Tuesday, Mrs. Camp sent her niece a telegram, telling her about it, and inviting her to come here. She came up Wednesday on the train, romped in the snow, made snowmen, and went rabbit hunting.

Last night she boarded the train for the trip home. She played "hokey" from school in order to make the Atlanta visit, but was so "excited and thrilled" at seeing her first snow, she didn't mind that.

EX-JUDGE MANTON'S 'BAGMAN' SENTENCED
NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(P)—William J. Fallon, so-called "bagman" for former Federal Judge Martin T. Manton, was sentenced today to nine months in prison and was fined $5,000. He pleaded guilty to an indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the government of the fair and impartial services of a judicial officer.

Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut passed the sentence.

Russians Attack All Day and All Night
But Finnish Lines Continue To Hold Firm*Reds' Asiatic Troops Hurdled Back Across Blood-Stained Snow.

By WADE WERNER.
HELSINKI, Jan. 25.—(P)—Relentless assaults by Russian armies, all day and all night across the blood-stained snows and frozen lakes on the flank of the Mannerheim line, were reported by Finnish military authorities tonight to have failed utterly to relieve large Russian forces trapped and harassed from every side near Kitea.

These forces are cut off almost entirely from communication with their main armies, and the impression grew in Helsinki that Finnish strategists are on the verge of another coup such as the one which brought destruction to two Russian divisions on the Salla front.

Even the reported importation of fighters from the Asiatic Soviet snowlands—in the hope of achieving a great victory by February 23, twenty-second anniversary of the establishment of the Red army, failed to crack the Finnish defenses in the furiously contested sector north of Lake

Something "big" is brewing in the battle area northeast of Lake Ladoga, according to reports in Helsinki yesterday, after three days of heavy fighting. Map shows: (1) Loimola, where a Russian column was smashed earlier in the war, and later reinforcements were stopped at the river; (2) Syskyjärvi, where another Russian drive was smashed; (3) Kitea, where trapped Russian soldiers are reported reduced to eating horse meat, and (4) where Russian attempts to relieve the Kitea divisions, by crossing the Lake Ladoga ice, were repulsed. (5) The Mannerheim line (dotted), along Karelia isthmus, which Russians have

Red Blunders Help Finns Prolong Defense--Palmer

By COL. FREDERICK PALMER.
For North American Newspaper Alliance.
NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—We are near the end of the second month of the Russo-Finnish war. At the start the Finns said they could hold out for six months. Now they have four months to go to make good on that mortal deadline.

Can they hold out the four months or even longer? Just what have been about to make that smashing, decisive drive. The latest report is that the Finns have just stopped another attempt to flank the Mannerheim Line around Lake Ladoga.

If the Russians continue their blundering tactics the Finns might hold out into the summer. But surely the Russians ought to profit by their mistakes if they have anything approaching military efficiency.

They have continued to underestimate Finnish courage, skill and mobility. Never, so far, have they sent enough men with enough fire power. Theirs was a vastly overwhelming superiority in planes and tanks. With the spring thaw the earth will be soft, the ice in the lakes breaking up.

Later the lakes will be passable only in boats when the long days will favor observation. Tanks can not swim nor go through the heavy stands of Finnish timber. Huge tree trunks will be piled across the roads. Russian inefficiency in mechanization will further gorge the roads with broken-down tanks or those put out of action by fire.

Dutch Ignore
'Siren Voices'

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Jan. 25.—(P)—Belligerent nations were told bluntly by Foreign Minister Beldor van Kieffens today The Netherlands gives no heed to "siren voices trying to involve us directly or indirectly in war."

A unanimous vote of confidence was given the foreign minister by the first chamber of parliament at the end of a speech reiterating the nation's determination to defend her neutrality, insist upon respect for her sovereign rights and refuse to be swayed by threats or appeals from belligerents.

Without naming first lord of the admiralty, Winston Churchill, Van Kieffens rejected the contention that neutrality made in a radio speech Saturday that neutrals were under both juridical and moral obligations as League of Nations members to join the Allies.

British Fear
Sharp Air Attack

By ROBERT E. BUNNELL.
LONDON, Jan. 25.—(P)—Britain today prepared for intensified warfare in the belief that Germany planned sharper air attacks in an attempt to sever the United Kingdom's overseas supply lines to match the Allied naval blockade.

The Press Association said it understood the admiralty intended to take over the building of merchant ships, as well as naval vessels, in a move to accelerate the British ship replacement program.

On land: The government ordered 23-year-old men to register February 17 for military service and with them men who have attained their 20th birthday since the last class was called. The order will affect about 250,000 men.

In the air: The Royal Air Force said in a communique it was developing "countermeasures" to deal with the expected increased air attacks by Germany on British supply lines. It kept secret their nature but in connection with the communique it was recalled Britain

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 25.—(UP)—William E. Borah, 74-year-old dean of the United States senate, was buried today in a plain grave in the cemetery overlooking the Idaho capital.

The Rev. Frank A. Rhea, dean of the Boise Episcopal cathedral, in the only address of the state services, said:

"The heart of the world is sad today because a great soul has ceased its participation in the affairs of men and of nations. Men differed with Mr. Borah, but they knew in their hearts if he were wrong he was honestly wrong."

Dean Rhea delivered the eulogy before Borah's casket in the state house rotunda. He, like many of the 30,000 who heard his words, knew Borah when he was a young mining camp lawyer.

recently announced development of long-range fighter planes as bomber escorts.

At the same time the defensive "balloon barrage" was being extended still further. It already stretches along 700 miles of coast.

While Britain is seeking to better her air defenses, the Royal Air Force praised existing safeguards for stating the current "jail" in German attempts to raid the coast was due to the efficacy of British anti-aircraft batteries.

Neutral shipping, which brings a substantial proportion of the supplies which feeds the British, had another black day.

The 1,732-ton Norwegian steamer Biarritz sank early in the morning after an explosion, believed due to one or two mines, in the North sea.

Twelve of her 24 passengers and 28 of her crew of 35 lost their lives, those saved picked up by the Norwegian steamer Borg-holm.

Other losses which occurred earlier but were disclosed only today included:

The 1,333-ton Finnish steamer Onto struck a mine Tuesday in the North sea and sank. The crew of 18 was saved.

The 1,188-ton Swedish steamer Patria sank Saturday in the North sea after hitting a mine. Four survivors of the crew of 21 reached a Swedish port today on a Finnish steamer.

The 1,580-ton Norwegian steamer Ila was wrecked last Sunday off the English coast and her crew of 19 rescued by a lifeboat.

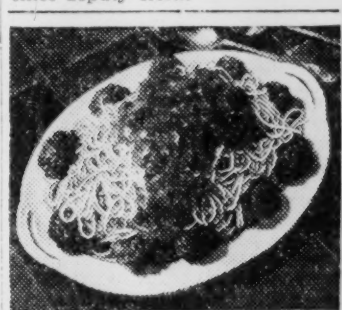

The Swedish steamer Gothia, 1,640 tons, sank several days ago after an explosion. Eleven sailors who reached a Scottish island said three of the crew were killed and 10 were missing.

Ninety-nine cases had been scheduled for today's hearing, according to Charles M. Paschall, chief deputy clerk.

Real Spaghetti Dinner

Less than 10c per portion!

A grand dish, quickly made—and perfectly made with tender, easily digested Mueller's Thin-Spaghetti.

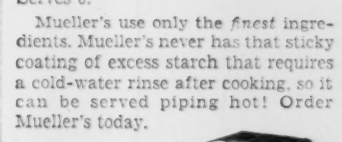

SPAGHETTI BEAUX ARTS

1 pkg. Mueller's Thin-Spaghetti
1 lb. hamburger steak
1 cup mushrooms (fresh or canned)
1 grated onion
1 cup bread crumbs
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
2 cups water
2 tablespoons catsup
Salt and pepper to taste

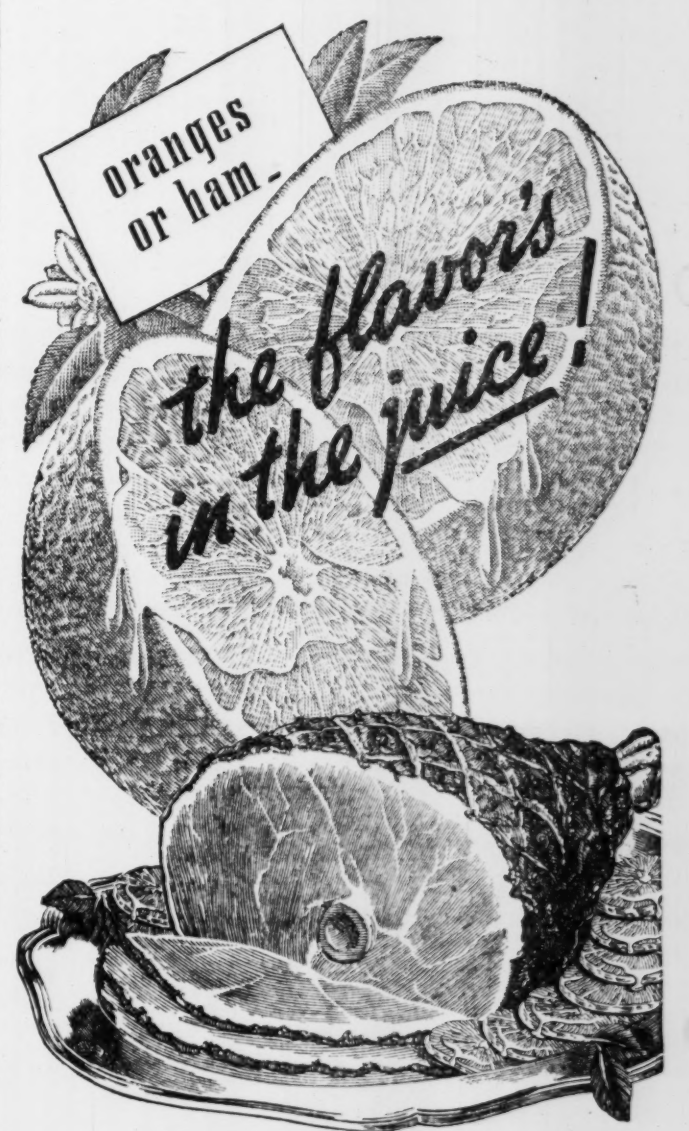

Moisten bread crumbs with milk, combine with hamburger steak, mix in thoroughly salt, pepper and onion.

Form in small balls and sauté with mushrooms in butter until brown. Remove from pan, stir in flour and brown; add water and catsup; cook, stir until smooth. Cook Mueller's Thin-Spaghetti as directed. Mueller's cooks firm yet tender in just 9 minutes, due to an exclusive "quick-dried" process. Put meat balls and spaghetti on hot platter and pour sauce over. Serves 6.

Mueller's use only the finest ingredients. Mueller's never has that sticky coating of excess starch that requires a cold-water rinse after cooking. So it can be served piping hot! Order Mueller's today.

PILOTS IN FINLAND

HELSINKI, Jan. 25.—(P)—Seven American pilots—the first to come to Finland's aid—arrived today.

They were headed by Vincent Schmidt, of Mineola, N. Y., a World War colonel who saw service as a volunteer in the Chinese and Spanish Republican air forces.

The others were Marcus J. Clark, Hollywood, Cal.; Fredrik Lundtoren, Philadelphia; Charles L. Stehlin, New York City; Harry Schell, who has been living in Monte Carlo; George Folds, Lake Forest, Ill.; and Emil L. Tonsant, Grand Forks, N. D.

Additional hundreds of Red army troops were left dead on the battlefields northeast of Lake Ladoga, terse official reports said.

After a tremendous all-day battle in the stubbornly contested Aittokjoki sector, the Russians spent all night sending wave after wave of troops against Finnish lines at Kollanajoki. The Finnish high command said the Aittokjoki attacks were thrown back with "heavy" Red army losses; the Kollanajoki assault was smashed at dawn today with several hundred Soviet dead and three tanks destroyed.

New assurance of foreign help came to this capital with the arrival of a British labor delegation headed by Sir Walter Citrine. Sir Walter told newspaper correspondents that British material aid is reaching Finland already in greater measure than is commonly believed.

are their real situation and prospects as we read behind the Finnish communiques?

For army bulletins must breathe confidence to the last. Men fight the better for thinking reinforcements are coming up to turn the tide in their favor.

We can check off the Finnish with the two communiques. The occasional Russian communiques do not show much progress. Modesty would hardly have led them to refrain from mentioning Russian gains.

There are correspondents with the Finns—under censorship of course—who support the Finnish claims, none with the Russians. We have photographs of the captures of Russian soldiers and material, none of the captures by Russians.

All the check-offs reveal that nowhere have the Russians, though on Finnish soil, made a yet dangerously deep penetration.

For eight weeks the Russians months and has taken 5,000 pictures of Finland in the period of transition from peace to war.

Both received the order of the White Rose.

French Curb
'False' Speech

PARIS, Jan. 25.—(P)—Wartime restrictions tightened today around free speech and press in France.

The government, announcing a new decree it said was aimed against defeatism, declared it was not intended, however, to "stifle every interpretation of events or suppress all free displays of opinion in a country like ours."

The decree provided sentences up to two years and fines up to 5,000 francs (about $110) for "false assertions which, presented as personal opinions, correspond in reality to the keynote of enemy propaganda and which, expressed publicly, indicate the marked intention of their authors to injure national defense by attacking the morale of the army and population."

Meanwhile, the French command announced that French na-

SPEAKERS TO TALK ON U. S. EMPLOYEE, EMPLOYER LAWS

Georgia Industries and Manufacturers' Association Will Take Part in Question Period.

Federal laws affecting the relationship of employer and employee will be the subject of three speakers today at the Biltmore Hotel as the Association of Georgia Industries and the National Association of Manufacturers hold a joint session.

John C. Gall, counsel to the National Association of Manufacturers will talk on "Operations Problems Under the Wagner Act"; Noel Sargent, secretary of the association, who will speak on "Employment Relations Problems for 1940"; and Henry W. Johnson, president of the Manufacturers' Association of New Jersey, who will discuss "Industrial Organization Operation Under Present Conditions."

Following the speaking there will be a question and answer forum, designed to "help the business man find his way out of the labyrinth of laws and regulations that is befogging his outlook and confusing him in the operation of his business," according to Slater Marshall, secretary of the Georgia group.

C. S. Broeman, of Atlanta, is president of the Associated Industries of Georgia, and Norman Elsas, of Atlanta, is treasurer. Other Atlantans who lead in the work of the organization, which is made up of the state's outstanding industrialists, are C. F. Stone, president of the Atlantic Steel Company, vice president, and W. H. Wright, secretary of the Georgia Power Company, a director.

PEACE-TERM PARLEY URGED BY WOMEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(P)—An organization claiming to represent more than 5,000,000 American women urged the government today "to initiate at the earliest possible moment a conference of non-belligerents to offer terms of mediation to all nations at war."

The peace proposal was adopted by the 15th conference on the cause and cure of war, with which 11 national women's organizations are affiliated.

Finland Places Spring Planting Bug Poison Order

BOUND BROOK, N. J., Jan. 25. (P)—Invasion by Russia evidently won't halt Finland's spring planting for the little Baltic nation's annual order for five tons of insecticide was on the books of the Sherwin-Williams Company today. The company's export department said the shipment was valued at from $7,000 to $10,000.

Air Raid Doesn't Excite White--That Is--Not Much

By WILLIAM L. WHITE.

Special Correspondent.

HELSINKI (By Mail)—So this is what typically happens during an air raid. I am up in my room and all of a sudden I hear it: a low moan rising to a scream and holding steady there just as you hear sirens in the movies and newscasts exactly like them but with this difference: that this time it is no phony dubbed into celluloid, but the McCoy, and down in the street outside people are running like hell five stories down, scrambling into the air raid shelter, and this also is the McCoy.

EXCLUSIVE

So then what do you do? Well, you grab your Leica and start pumping it out the window at the people running into the air raid shelters, forgetting that the lens is set at 2 and 1-8 of a second instead of about 4.5 and 100th as it should be. So then banging starts just outside of town, but the ground does not shake yet, so you know it is the Finns pumping the sky full of shrapnel and not aerial bombs. Not yet.

By this time most of the people are headed into the shelters and no more good pictures from here; so you wonder what you do, maybe you stay right in, your room because the old-timers say that nothing but a direct hit will get you there, and one of these will get you in the best shelter ever made.

Things Are Sorta Dull. But it is dull in the room and you decide to go down and see the sun closer, and maybe snap some pix.

And so what do you take? Well, by this time your adrenalin has started working and you begin to feel excited, and of course you take your trenchcoat and your high sheepskin hat because if your room gets blown to hell and gone you will want your warm things on you, and you remember your Leica but forget your lightmeter and of course your cigarettes, but you forget your matches, and to hell with the gas mask.

Company Is Desirable. There is nobody you know in the lobby, so you go out into the street and then across into the park where the soldiers are shooting up toward the planes. Because you have your pass which says you may be out on the street in air raids, although it is written in Finnish and you can't read it, but it has your photo.

So then the cops with black sheepskin caps and blue uniforms and rifles start to run you into the air raid shelter in the park, so you show them your pass, but they explain in Finnish with polite gestures that this is all very well but you must get the hell into the air raid shelter anyway.

Pink Velvety Lotion Keeps Skin in "Pink" of Condition

It's Effective During Winter Or Summer

By Lillian Mae.

Pink, luscious and strawberry-looking. That's the very lovely-to-look-at and very satisfactory-to-use lotion which is timely now, when winter is doing its worst for face, hands and body.

The velvet smoothness which it imparts immediately makes it a general favorite at any time of the year, but especially now, when a certain amount of smoothing, soothing and lubricating is more than necessary. Yes, it lubricates and soothes, without being one particle greasy or sticky. After it dries—which is immediately—or while it is still damp, the user may go right ahead and dress or handle anything without a particle of annoyance.

Its uses are almost unlimited. As a powder base it is good; for correcting or preventing dry throat and neck it is excellent; as a general body rub it can't be beat. And if you take advantage of a once-a-year sale price now, you won't feel conscience-stricken about rubbing your entire body with it after your bath, for the regular sized bottle is doubled in size and the price is that of the regular one. While this special supply lasts, there is no limit on the number of bottles you may purchase.

If you are working in an office you should have a bottle handy for use every time you bathe your hands. If you are a housewife you'll certainly love it for use following each dishwashing.

Excuse me while I become a bit facetious and say that the lovely pink lotion is just the thing to keep your skin in the "pink" of condition during the cold weather. Used before you are exposed to the biting wind—and yes, the snow we've had recently, it will prevent chapping, cracking and other skin discomforts that are prevalent now. Then, if you have some of it left when winter's gone, it is splendid as a skin protection against summer's sun—at home, on the beach or in the mountainous regions.

Phone me for the name of the lovely lotion and stock up while the manufacturer is good enough to give you a double supply for your money. If you do not live in Atlanta, write me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Slenderizing Dress

By Barbara Bell.

You can see that this dress (1634-B) has lovely lines. But you can't actually realize how slenderizing, how suave and distinguishing it is until you get it on, and hear people exclaim "How slim you look!" The front panel of the skirt is cut in one with the waistline section, a detail very belittling to the midriff. Perfect smoothness of fit is made possible by the fact that the midriff section ends in narrow belts that fasten in the back.

This dress fits perfectly over the bosom—no skimpiness and no bulkiness—because it is gathered below the shoulders and above the waistline. Even the V-neckline does its slimming bit, because it ends in a lengthening point. Make this up once and you'll make it up time and again. It is lovely in flat crepe, rayon jersey or thin wool. Barbara Bell pattern No. 1634-B is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 5/8 yards of 39-inch material, with short sleeves; 5 yards with long; 1 1/4 yards of trimming.

It's smart to sew your own! It's easy to do! Send for our fascinating pattern book. Choose from more than 100 new designs for all occasions and all sizes. Make your own becoming clothes, with these simple patterns. Step-by-step sewing chart with each one.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Price of pattern book, 15 cents. Do not send stamps. Mail orders to Barbara Bell Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Use the lotion generously as a body rub and you will prevent or do away with dry, itchy skin so often caused by water that is too warm or houses that are overheated.

Insufficient Intake of Sugar May Cause Attacks Like These

By Dr. William Brady.

I suppose we doctors would be unhappy if we were compelled to call the superfluous names we delight to use in our writing and speech. Think how silly it would be if you went to an eminent specialist complaining of your heart and he had to tell you it is heart trouble. You'd be attempted to complain that you had told him so. But not a peep out of you if the great man decided that you are suffering from a cardiac condition. That means something.

Hyperinsulinism is a modest term, as modern medical lingo goes, meaning secretion of too much insulin by the specialized groups of cells in the pancreas, the islands of Langerhans, whose function it is to produce the hormone, insulin, required for the utilization of fuel, carbohydrate, blood sugar, animal starch, glycogen, glucose, dextrose in the body machinery. An opposite state, called hypoinsulinism, meaning insufficient insulin, is the essential diabetes.

There is a certain amount of sugar (glucose or dextrose) constantly present in the blood of a healthy person, during fasting it amounts to one-tenth of one per cent, and after a meal it rises to approximately half a percent more. In other words, the blood contains a total of perhaps 2 1/4 ounces of sugar when one is fasting, and as much as 3 1/2 ounces after a hearty meal.

When the proportion of sugar in the blood falls below .17 per cent when the individual is fasting, the question of diabetes arises. In a diabetic the blood sugar is generally .18 per cent or higher. That is less disturbing or serious than a comparable lowering of the proportion of blood sugar below .1 per cent. In some circumstances individuals suffer extraordinary upsets from hyperinsulinism, secretion of too much insulin, and consequent hypoglycemia, a condition for low blood pressure, the excess of insulin so quickly burning up or using up the circulating supply of sugar in the blood before it can be replenished. Such emergencies sometimes occur when a patient with diabetes receives a dose of insulin and fails or is unable to take some food shortly afterward.

But the same hyperinsulinism and hypoglycemia occurs as a casual complication in cases of adrenal gland insufficiency such as Addison's disease, in cases of myxedema or slow thyroid function, in cases of faulty function of the anterior pituitary gland associated with the peculiar type of pituitary obesity characterized by "piano legs" accumulation of a fat girdle about the hips, buttocks, thighs and comparatively little or no surplus fat in the upper half of the body.

A moderate attack of hyperinsulinism (hypoglycemia) is manifested by unusual sensations of hunger, sudden sweating, swimming of objects before the eyes, irritability and quarrelsomeness; fatigue, somnolence and excessive yawning. In more severe attacks there may be threatening collapse and fainting, temporary paralysis or blindness, pallor, cold sweats, stupor, even coma.

The paramount remedy or treatment for any such attack in any case is sugar in any form, cane sugar, candy, sweetened beverage, ice cream, fruit juice, cookie, cake, milk (milk sugar).

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Grains. In all your discourses on foods and minerals and vitamins I can't recall a word about flaxseed or linseed. What virtues has it in the way of nourishment, stimulant, mineral or vitamin, and what about the mineral and vitamin content of grains? (S. L.)

Answer—Flaxseed is a valuable food for cattle, contains considerable protein (nitrogenous material) digestible for man. The whole grains, especially wheat and oats, are naturally the richest sources of vitamin B complex and of vitamin E. Whole flaxseeds probably contain considerable B complex as well as A. I believe a tablespoonful of whole raw flaxseeds daily, eaten mixed with cereal, fruit or other food, or washed down with water or other beverage would enable most victims of the constipation habit to win their freedom from physic and at the same time help to correct the nutritional deficiency from which they suffer. If you want specific instructions about this send 10 cents and a 1-cent stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet, "The Constipation Habit."

Answer—Send 3-cent stamped envelope with her name and address on it, for monograph on acne.

Actress Refuses Role in Orson Welles Picture

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.—Lew Ayres received a cable offer to go to England via the clipper and make a salary of $2,500 a week—about double what he is getting now. "Of course," the cable continued, "you can't take the money out of England, but we guarantee it will be safe in London for the duration of the war!"

Groucho Marx, at the Beverly Hills Tennis Club, demands of Coach Eleanor Tennant: "Has Alice Marble arrived? Tell her I'd like her to play tennis with me." After Miss Tennant had indulged in a "double take," she admonished Mr. Marx—"If I'm giving a party, I don't say, 'Has Groucho Marx arrived? Tell him I'd like him to entertain us!'" Miss Marble, incidentally, is still awaiting the result of her screen test at Metro. Her future plans are a little vague.

"Last summer, as an amateur, cost me $3,000," she tells me. I gather Alice would like to recoup some of this via the movies.

The Clark Gable-Carole Lombard vacation is held up while Clark hangs around, waiting for retakes of "Strange Cargo." Orson Welles wants Miss Lombard to play opposite him in "Smiler with a Knife," but Carole says "No"—she wants to rest awhile. . . . Joan Crawford is studying the stage "stills" of Gertrude Lawrence in "Susan and God." Also the movie made of the play during its run in New York. My advice to the additional trick-takers: To determine the precise trick-taking value of a hand involves the count of "playing tricks."

Playing tricks represent the combined values of (a) honor-tricks held, (b) long suit tricks, and in the case of responding hand only, (c), short-suit or ruffing tricks.

VALUE OF TRUMPS. Today we are concerned only with valuing declarer's hand. To obtain the full trick-taking value of trumps, we count every card held over three in the suit for one full winner. For example, spades are trump: (1) S-A-Q-9-8. Count one full winner for the long-suit card, the 8 spot. (2) S-A-10-6-5-3. Count two full winners for the 5 and 3.

Now to determine the full trick-taking value of trumps, add the honor-trick values in the suit to the long-suit values. In (1) the ace-queen is valued at 1-1-2 honor-tricks, added to the one long-suit winner, gives us a total of 2-1-2 trump winners, that is between two and three, depending upon whether the queen wins.

In (2) count one honor-trick for the spade ace, combined with the two long cards, totals three trump winners, and so on.

SIDE SUIT VALUES. Four-card, five-card and greater lengths, if headed by at least a 10 spot, in suits other than the trumps, have definite trick-taking values in the hand of declarer. (1) Value any four-card length for 1-2 trick. (2) Any five-card length for one full winner. (3) Any six-card side suit length is valued at two winners.

To this length value in side suits, add the honor-tricks contained in the side suits, with spade trumps you have—

Bound to Family Son Has Little To Offer Wife

By Caroline Chatfield.

Talk about heartsickening disappointments, there's none more worse than the disappointment of the wife who moves in with her husband's family for a short time and discovers it's for life. Every day that passes removes her dream of a separate home farther and farther from her until she loses the inspiration that a dream of home is to every wife.

After a few years she realizes that nagging gets her nothing but her husband's displeasure. Later she realizes that the very mention of a separate home is a fighting word with him. And soon she's shut off from the only solace a woman has when in a jam: tears and talk.

That's bad enough; but when on top of her disappointment there's a bossy mother-in-law to deal with and perennial argument about money spending, with her husband on his parents' side, it's not surprising that she should consider herself cheated in the marriage bargain.

One of two things she can do: go to work and earn sufficient money to buy the little things to satisfy her feminine vanity; or cultivate a stoical attitude toward life, making the most of the pleasures at hand and looking forward to the day when in the course of human events, the old folks will pass on to their heavenly reward and she will get her earthly reward.

Miss Chatfield: Ever since we were married my husband has worked for his father and we have lived with his parents. Believe me, it is a dog's life. My husband is the sort of man who thinks his father is a god and can do no wrong, though he has been working him to death and underpaying him for eight years. If my husband had the sense to get out on his own he could make a good living and we could have a home of our own. But when I argue with him that his salary isn't half enough he reminds me that we live here without cost and if I would add it up I would see that he is making a big living.

"Maybe it is without cost to him but I tell you I pay. I can't even buy a 98-cent hat unless his mother thinks I need it. She doesn't understand why we aren't happy to sit at home every evening and talk to her instead of 'wasting money on foolishness.' By that she means we shouldn't go to the movies or take in any sort of amusement. As for going to a restaurant for dinner, she spends two dollars when there is plenty of food at home that costs us nothing, she thinks it's a crime.

"Our youth is passing and I am living like old folks. Is there no way to convince my husband that every family should lead its own life and that our children deserve to have their own home?"

Count Declarer's Trick-Taking Suits

By Harold Sharpsteen.

(Ten-Card Lesson No. 16.)

The Culbertson honor-tricks table furnishes a yardstick for valuing high cards but it does not include the additional trick-taking values of long and short suits. To determine the precise trick-taking value of a hand involves the count of "playing tricks."

Playing tricks represent the combined values of (a) honor-tricks held, (b) long suit tricks, and in the case of responding hand only, (c), short-suit or ruffing tricks.

VALUE OF TRUMPS. Today we are concerned only with valuing declarer's hand. To obtain the full trick-taking value of trumps, we count every card held over three in the suit for one full winner. For example, spades are trump: (1) S-A-Q-9-8. Count one full winner for the long-suit card, the 8 spot. (2) S-A-10-6-5-3. Count two full winners for the 5 and 3.

Next Friday we will learn how to value the supporting hand for playing tricks.

Woman's Quiz

Q. How should the hair of a bedridden invalid be cleaned? The patient cannot stand a regular shampoo.

A. Use a dry hair cleaner, which can be purchased at any large drug store. The patient should be protected from cold and the window should be open. No open flame should be in the room as the dry cleaner is explosive. Hold the patient's head, face up, over a basin and have someone pour the dry cleaner over her hair. Great care must be exercised not to get it in the patient's eyes and to protect the patient as much as possible from the fumes. Dry cleaner takes only a few minutes to dry. Apply a good hair tonic to the scalp with cotton. If the patient is very weak, it is best to apply only hair tonic to the scalp and gently brush the hair.

MY DAY Individual Must Fulfill Responsibility as Citizen

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON—There are so many things being done for the Finnish relief fund these days that, sympathetic as I am to their cause, I still feel that we should not forget the innumerable other people throughout the world who are also suffering. I realize that another element besides relief for civilians enters into the help that is given Finland, but even from that point of view, we must not forget other nations which are in need, or which still have a chance to strike a blow for their own freedom.

I wish that the requests and letters that I get telling me of various activities for the Finns could be duplicated by requests and letters about things being done for other countries. That is why I have wanted a co-ordination of all relief work, so there would be a balance in the distribution of funds, no duplication of work and no unnecessary overhead. However, I am glad to tell you of every effort which is being made to help the oppressed or the suffering.

I have just heard that there is an exhibition going on at the Gotham hotel branch of the Grand Central Art Galleries, 55th street and Fifth avenue, New York city, which is open daily from 9:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. and on Sundays from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m. One hundred and sixty top-ranking American artists have contributed paintings and water colors and there is an additional interest in the fact that blind auctions are held at intervals so that some of the paintings may be bought during the exhibition.

I want also to tell you of a letter which I have just received and which is, of course, the product of someone's sense of humor, plus possibly a little too much idle time! From Los Angeles, Cal., the letter comes purporting to be from a young Communist organization, which informs me that they are naming their branch for me and which gives me undesired praise for doing things which I have not done! I appreciate the joke, but since my correspondent gave me no address, I must use this way of telling him that this is perhaps too serious a matter for joking. They cannot use names without permission and, in addition, I am now and always will be opposed to the Communist form of government.

I uphold the right of those who believe in it to express their own ideas, and I know that the theory of Communism may be of help in certain instances, but we, in this country, are beyond that stage. We are interested in a true democracy and we work for the ultimate development of a way of life in our country which will make it possible for every individual to fulfill his responsibility as a citizen in a democracy.

We have again the most beautiful snowstorm and I have word that even in Texas, for the first time in many years, some sections have had as much as four inches of snow, so that schools have been closed in order that the children might enjoy this rare phenomenon. I can only hope that they found tin trays enough to use as sleds.

Vitality Is Fundamental To an Erect Posture

Learn Short Cut To Piano Playing

Worlds of fun and good times reward the girl who can play the piano. She who can entertain with popular tunes, gay dance rhythms is invariably the center of attraction in her crowd.

And by a simple new method you can quickly learn to read music, master the piano keyboard.

In your first lessons you slip behind the keys of your piano a "bite-sized" chart of the section of the keyboard most used in popular music. This chart shows the notes as they appear on sheet music and what key to strike for each note.

And huge though your piano keyboard may look, you find you haven't many keys to learn. The same 12 keys are repeated throughout the keyboard in groups called octaves and these keys are easily mastered.

The first key is Middle C—center of your keyboard, below the maker's name. As music is written, the note for Middle C is indicated for the right hand as you see on the staff.

Now continue until you come to the next C (remembering the black keys are sharps or flats) and you will have completed an octave.

In easy stages you learn time values, the notes and keys for the left hand. Surprisingly soon you play the melodies and accompanying bass chords of simple old-time tunes and many of your modern favorites!

Start now to learn the piano by the simple method explained in our new 24-page instruction book, A SHORT CUT TO PIANO PLAYING. Contains the Play-quickly Keyboard Chart, tables of chords, music for eight popular tunes to practice with. Standard music size, 9 by 12 inches, just right for your music rack.

Send 15c in coins for our instruction book. A SHORT CUT TO PIANO PLAYING, To Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of instruction book.

Two Crisp Aprons

By Lillian Mae.

Yes, keeping house is real work! But you can look fresh and pretty as you fly about your tasks in Lillian Mae's dainty apron, Pattern 4304. It's right in style, with a new vasp waist created by pointed seaming. The pockets look like blooming tulips; the neck is a gracefully curved V-shape. You may scallop the front shoulder straps or make them in a rounded shape. Do take a look at the back and note the ingenious arrangement of straps to keep them up where they belong. Make the straps and pockets in cheery contrast if you wish, and add rick-rack or ruffling at the edges.

Pattern 4304 is available in sizes small, medium and large. Small size, view B, takes 2 5/8 yards 35-inch fabric and 3 1/4 yards rick-rack; view A, 2 1/2 yards 35-inch fabric and 3-8 yard contrast. Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

MAN, CHILD BRIDE FACE COURT TRIAL

Mother of Girl Also Bound Over During Hearing at Darien.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. DARIEN, Ga., Jan. 25.—Before a crowd which overtaxed the capacity of the McIntosh county courthouse, the county's first bride, 12-year-old Alice Harnback Ard, and her husband, Walter Ard, 20, were bound over to the city court of Darien this week on charges of illicit relations.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Mary Harnback, also was bound over to the city court on charges of being an accessory before and after the fact. Judge H. E. Price, of Ludowici, presided at the preliminary hearing for the trio. Deputy Sheriff Hazel Gale had preferred charges against them when he learned of the girl's marriage, and of her age.

The defendants posted $100 bonds to appear at the March 12 term of the court. The young bride, her husband, and mother reside on a farm six miles from here. The young couple made no statement, Gale said, but several state witnesses testified as to the girl's age. A beauty shop operator testified that Mrs. Harnback brought the girl to her shop a few days before the ceremony January 12 and asked her to fix the child's hair "to make her look older." The mother, who gave consent to the wedding, accompanied her daughter and Ard to the ordinary's office at Claxton, where the marriage was performed.

Party Series To Fete Miss Haudenschild

Miss Clarice Haudenschild, of Pittsburgh, Pa., the guest of Mrs. Verlyn Moore at her home on East Wesley road, is forming the inspiration for a series of interesting parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore will entertain Saturday from 5 to 7:30 o'clock at an appetizer party at their home honoring Miss Haudenschild, with whom Mrs.

Moore attended school at Fairmont. The belle has visited here upon a number of occasions, and has a legion of friends in this city. Next Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Moore will be hosts at a steak fry at Lakemoore, home of their parents on Roswell road, in compliment to Miss Haudenschild, the affair to be followed by a scavenger hunt.

On Thursday Mrs. James Moore has planned a luncheon at her home on Ponce de Leon in compliment to the visitor, and on Friday Mrs. R. A. Edmondson will entertain at an informal dinner party at her home on Wesley road.

Mrs. Blanton Weds William J. Lynch

The marriage of Mrs. Opal Gardner Blanton, of Jacksonville, Fla., formerly of Atlanta, and William J. Lynch, of Atlanta, took place last Saturday at the Cathedral in St. Augustine, Fla. Father Morris performed the impressive ceremony.

Mrs. Pearl Gardner Seamen, of Jacksonville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a becoming model of dusty pink crepe and a felt hat to match her costume. Her flowers were tea roses and white hyacinths.

The lovely bride wore a stylish costume made of hunter green crepe, trimmed with mink fur and worn with brown accessories. Her green felt hat was trimmed with mink fur and her flowers were gardenias and white hyacinths. The bride's brother, Charles T. Gardner, of Jacksonville and Atlanta, was best man for Mr. Lynch.

Upon their return from their honeymoon spent in Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Lynch will reside at 215 Twelfth street. The groom has been connected with the First National bank for 20 years, and is a highly esteemed Atlantan.

'Birthday Bawl' Will Compliment Alice Birney Robert on Tuesday

By Sally Forth.

"EVIE" ROBERT, who is as clever as she is pretty and attractive, has scored another triumph in cleverness. This time it is a birthday party for her small daughter, Alice Birney Robert, who will be one year old next Tuesday.

The cleverest of invitations, adorned with drawings of bawling youngsters, have been issued to a "birthday bawl" in the names of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert Jr., on Tuesday, the 30th. The party will be held at the home of "Evie's" mother, Mrs. Harold Walker, in Washington, D. C., for although Atlanta also claims the Roberts as residents, small Alice Birney has not as yet paid a visit to her second home. Mrs. Walker, it seems, has recently taken a handsome new residence on Leroy place in the national capital, which she will open to a throng of Washington socialites and their youngsters in honor of her granddaughter.

The party will assume a national aspect, for the reason that Alice Birney's birthday happens to coincide with that of President Roosevelt, which is annually marked by birthday balls given throughout the country for the benefit of the unfortunate infantile paralysis victims. In line with their sympathetic vision and their great admiration for the President and his humane movement, the hosts will charge an entry fee of $1, the proceeds to go to the Warm Springs Foundation for paralysis victims.

With a thought for everyone's comfort, "Evie" has invited each small guest to bring his nurse, in addition to his "mamma" and "papa." And, of course, entertainment will be arranged for all ages, for a clever hostess like "Evie" never forgets a single detail.

THE biggest thrill that Atlanta's erstwhile Vida Barnwell ever had, according to her recent letter, was when Arnoldus Vanderhorst, president of the St. Cecilia Club in Charleston, phoned to invite her to lead the figure with him at last evening's brilliant St. Cecilia ball in Charleston. The letter was addressed to Vida's aunt, Mrs. J. C. Hoke, of this city, with whom the deb spent two years while attending school at N. A. P. S.

Vida, whose vivacity and charm won for her a legion of friends in Atlanta, is the first debutante ever to have led the dinner march at the St. Cecilia ball. Heretofore it has been the custom for a prominent bride of the season to lead the figure.

As you recall, the attractive belle is a former president of the O. B. X. sorority, also having served as president of the senior class at N. A. P. S., where she won the title of "Miss Health."

Vida is now visiting her aunt, Mrs. I. K. Heyward, whose home on Broad street is one of the show places of Charleston. As chairman of the debutantes, she was formally presented to society at two elaborate parties. The first was a ball on December 16 given by her aunt at Hibernian Hall, and three days later Vida made her bow at a brilliant reception which assembled the socially elite of the historic city.

Last evening's affair featured a debutante table at which were seated four couples, Vida having been privileged to invite the three debs and their escorts who shared the table with her and her date.

SALLY has just heard of another popular belle who will join the matron ranks at an early date. The young lady in question attended Shorter College, in Rome, while her groom-to-be received his education at Oglethorpe University.

The formal announcement of the prominent couple's engagement will appear in March and the wedding will take place at a brilliant church ceremony in April.

To divulge more about the identities of the bridal pair would make guessing far too easy.

WHEN Atlanta society arrives at the Rabun Gap Guild Mardi Gras ball, to be staged on February 6 at the Driving Club, members will be surprised to learn that one of the city's most popular gentlemen has been

Seminary Closes Until Monday

Due to the inclement weather, the Washington Seminary will be closed until Monday, according to the announcement made yesterday by Miss Emma Scott, the principal.

chosen to rule as King of the Mardi Gras. Sally hears that the affair will be patterned after the authentic Mardi Gras in New Orleans, which promises no end of fun for those planning to attend.

The king has already been selected by the officers of the Rabun Gap Guild and the heads of the various executive committees. However, his identity will be kept secret until the night of the ball. His queen, as Sally informed you previously, will be elected at the ball.

A feature of the elaborate decorations at the affair will be the myriads of colorful balloons which will adorn the columns and ceiling of the club, and which will be released at midnight when the party reaches its climax.

Dancing Atlantans must attend the affair wearing either costumes or formal attire. It is rumored that some of the loveliest costumes yet seen in this city will make their appearance at the masquerade.

Planters' Garden Club Holds Recent Meeting

Planters' Garden Club met recently with Mrs. Robert F. Shedden, with the president, Mrs. E. F. Daniel, presiding.

Mrs. Hal Davidson and her committee will have an arrangement of berries at Rich's Garden Center on February 15th.

Plants and bulbs are being planted in the gardens of the Peachtree station.

Mrs. Tom C. Erwin was speaker and gave an interesting talk on "Camellia Culture," bringing with her a large basket of beautiful camellias of several varieties grown by Mr. Shutez and Mrs. Erwin from their green houses. Mrs. Shedden served tea in the dining room assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Robert S. Foreman Jr.

Bridal Couple Will Be Honored.

Further complimenting a popular bride-elect and her fiancé, Miss Rosalie Voight and Charles Gilmore, whose marriage will be an event of February 10 at St. Luke's Episcopal church, will be the party at which Miss Nelle Osborn will entertain on the evening of February 9.

The affair will take place after the rehearsal and will assemble members of the Voight-Gilmore wedding party.

Mrs. J. Pat Kelly To Represent Legion Auxiliary in Washington

Mrs. J. Pat Kelly, Georgia Department president of the American Legion Auxiliary, leaves on Monday for Washington, D. C., to represent that organization at the fifteenth annual women's patriotic conference on national defense from January 31 through February 2.

Delegates from 40 women's organizations with a combined membership of more than 1,000,000 will attend. All phases of national security will be discussed by leading authorities during the three days' sessions.

A pilgrimage to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier will open conference activities on January 31. The first session, in the ballroom of the Mayflower hotel, will take the form of a patriotic mass meeting, with Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, and George Eberly, national commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, as speakers.

Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of American Legion, and Harry W. Woodring, secretary of war, will speak at the conference banquet on February 1.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, first national president of American Legion Auxiliary and president of National Society of New England Women, will preside at the conference as chairman, assisted by Mrs. William Corwith, the Auxiliary's national president, as first vice chairman. Auxiliary delegates from every department will attend.

Thurston Hatcher Studio.
MRS. J. PAT KELLY.

Besides Mrs. Kelly, American Legion Auxiliary will be represented by Mrs. Boyce Picklin Jr., of Washington, Ga., past department and national president, and Mrs. P. I. Dixon, of Thomasville, national Americanism chairman. While in Washington, the Georgia delegation will entertain the Georgia congressmen at the conference banquet in the Mayflower hotel.

Mrs. Clara Cassidy Installs Officers For Two Groves

Mrs. Clara B. Cassidy, national director and state manager of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, was installing officers at the installation of officers of American Grove No. 217 and Mary E. La Roca Grove No. 264, held recently at the home of Mrs. Cassidy.

Mrs. Cassidy was assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth McWaters, of Cedartown, national representative and past state president, as installing attendant; Mrs. Daisy Moultrie, state historian, as chaplain and the Do-Al-Ta team girls, under the direction of Associate State Captain Mrs. Blanche Schofield. Miss Ruth Kinnett was installing musician and is pianist for the team girls.

Mrs. Willie Belle O'Keefe, retiring guardian of American Grove, was in charge of the opening ceremonies. The guardian, Mrs. Jeannie Brown, of La Roca Grove, occupied a prominent seat on the stage.

Distinguished guests other than the installing officers were: State vice president, Mrs. Annie Byars; state attendant, Mrs. Louise Baumgras; Mrs. Jeannie Brown, state junior counselor, and Willie Bagwell, past counsel counselor of Empire State Camp, W. O. W., who brought greetings from his camp. Mrs. McWaters responded to Mr. Bagwell. During the presentation of the United States flag by the attendant, Mrs. Annie Byars, Miss Coala Mitchell sang "God Bless America" and was accompanied by Miss Ernestine Mitchell. George Wilkes rendered a violin solo, "Deserted Garden," with Mrs. Jeannette Wilkes at the piano.

Lovely gifts were presented to the installing officers and to Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Cassidy gave the principal address.

Officers for American Grove are: Guardian, Blanche Schofield; past guardian, Willie Belle O'Keefe; advisor, Frances James; chaplain, Rose Terry; attendant, Annie Byars; assistant attendant, Vera Hardy; captain, Al L. Schofield; recording secretary, Kathryn Fortner; financial secretary, Helen Shearin; banker, Corine Hutcherson; reporter, Florence Scarborough.

Auditors are first, Ellie Bagby; second, Mae Gentry; third, Lynn Ridgeway; inner sentinel, Inez Jones; outer sentinel, Jewell Michael; musician, Ruth Kinnett; junior supervisor, Hazel Bankston.

Next Thursday Miss Marianna Adair will give a luncheon at her home on Twenty-eighth street and on Friday, February 2, Mrs. Kendall Weisiger will entertain at luncheon at her home on Seventeenth street in Miss Hill's honor.

On Saturday evening, February 3, Miss Hill and Dr. Boland will be central figures at an informal party to be given by a group of friends at Lakemoor on Roswell road. Hosts for the occasion will include Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kilpatrick, Miss Harriet Grant, Bryan Grant and Jim Franklin. The guests will be at the party dressed to represent social titles.

Miss Dorothy Sanford has planned a luncheon for the bride-to-be for Thursday, February 8, the affair to be given in the Mirador room of the Capital City Club. On Saturday, February 10, Miss Carolyn Malone and her sister, Mrs. Jack White, will give a luncheon at the home of their mother, Mrs. J. C. Malone, on Fairview road.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Conklin have chosen Sunday, February 11, as the date for their dinner in compliment to Miss Hill and Dr. Boland. The party will be given at land. The party will be given at land.

On Tuesday, February 13, Mrs. Joe Horacek Jr. will be hostess at luncheon at the home of her mother, Mrs. T. G. Sanford, on Argonne Drive, in honor of the bride-elect.

Miss Barbara Massey and Fiance Will Be Honored at Party Series

Miss Barbara Massey, whose engagement to Norman K. Arnold was announced this week, will be honored at a series of interesting prenuptial parties. The marriage of this popular couple will be a brilliant event of February and will assemble a large group of friends and members of the families from this state and from Tennessee.

Among parties already planned is the buffet supper at which Mrs. W. H. Dabney will be hostess on Monday evening at her home on Anjaco drive for the bridal pair. On Tuesday evening Mrs. William Starr will entertain Miss Massey and Mr. Arnold at a buffet supper. Invited for the occasion will be a group of friends of the betrothed couple.

Mrs. Roy Leonard has selected Wednesday as the date of the tea at which she will compliment the bride-to-be. The affair will be held at the home of the hostess, and will assemble a large group of friends of the hostess and honoree.

Additional parties have been planned for the engaged couple, the date and nature of these affairs will be announced later.

Miss Nancy Moody And Blanton Smith Honored at Party

Miss Nancy Moody and Blanton Smith, whose marriage will be a social event of this evening, were honored last evening at the final in the series of parties given in their honor.

The affair was a buffet supper given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Smith, parents of the groom-elect, who entertained at their home on Northwood avenue after the wedding rehearsal at the North Avenue Presbyterian church.

Pink and white flowers were used as the decorations in the home and green and white on the table carried out the bridal motif. Assisting the hosts in entertaining were Mesdames J. N. Moody, mother of the bride-elect, and James Crew and McGavock Hayes, of Nashville, Tenn. Only members of the wedding party, family and out-of-town guests were present.

The luncheon planned yesterday by Miss Mimi Platter for Miss Moody was canceled due to the inclement weather. The affair will take place after Miss Moody returns from her wedding trip.

Invited are Mrs. Stanley Hol-drith, Mrs. Thornton Deas, Misses Medora Fitten, Isabel Boykin, Mildred Ewing and Martie Edwards, of Dallas, Texas.

Prenuptial Party Series To Honor Miss Glisson and Charles Fleming

A series of interesting prenuptial parties is being planned in compliment to Miss Kathleen Glisson and her fiancé, Charles E. Fleming, by a host of admiring friends. The marriage of the popular young couple will take place at a buffet luncheon ceremony at the Inman Park Methodist church on February 24. Initiating the series is the bridge-luncheon at which Mrs. Inez Foote will entertain members of the Friday Afternoon Bridge Club tomorrow in compliment to Miss Glisson and Miss Rosa From, another popular bride-elect, at her home at 1233 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Invited to meet the honorees are Misses Skette Hill, Mary Harralson, Ernestine Mitchell, Eleanor Morris, Mrs. E. C. Parker and Mrs. S. S. Lockhart.

On Sunday afternoon, Miss Skette Hill and Miss Eleanor Morris will keep open house at the home of Mrs. H. H. Wight, 3657 Ridgewood road, from 3 to 5 o'clock, with Miss Glisson and Miss From sharing honors. Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Parker have chosen February 3 as the date for their party for Miss Glisson and Mr. Fleming, the affair to be held at their home on Palfox drive.

Mrs. Jack Alexander will give a linen shower for the bride-elect on February 7, and on February 10 Miss Mildred Butler and Mrs. J. G. Ammons will be hostesses at a shower in her honor. On February 11, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harralson and Miss Mary Harralson will be hosts at a buffet supper at the home of the former on Columbia drive in Decatur in compliment to the bridal couple.

Mrs. Roger Speck's lingerie shower for Miss Glisson is set for February 14 and will be given at her home on Beecher street. On February 16 Mrs. S. S. Lockhart will be hostess at a miscellaneous shower at her home on Cascade avenue.

Following the wedding rehearsal on the evening of February 23, Mrs. Powell Anderson will entertain at a buffet supper at her home on Sylvan road as a complimentary gesture to Miss Glisson and Mr. Fleming. The affair will assemble members of the wedding personnel, and the hosts will be assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Myrt Holbrook. Following the marriage of the young couple, the bride-elect's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Fred L. Glisson will entertain at an informal reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dunbar on Columbia drive in Decatur.

BIRTHDAY PARTY EVENTS TO START HERE TOMORROW

Children's Floor Show and Bridge Party Are Arranged; Ticket Sale for 4 Dances Pressed.

Plans for two bright events preceding the President's Birthday Celebration were ready last night as members of the Fulton County Committee for the Celebration pressed the sale of tickets to the four dances set for Tuesday night.

The two events of the week end preceding the celebration will be the seventh annual Children's Matinee and Floor Show at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Dixie ballroom of the Henry Grady hotel and the benefit bridge party at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Dinkler room of the Ansley hotel.

Floor Show Program.
The floor show, staged and directed by Janet Smith, 14, and Dorothy Anne Smith, 12, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. DeFord Smith, 281 Rumson road, will include the following program:

World's Fair Walk, Henrietta Reid, Julia Leonard, Joe Savell and Hugh Saussey; song and dance, Frances Morgan; Russian ballet number, Ann Hinkle; acrobatic dance, Catherine Roberts; accordion solo, George Leonard; string music, the Roberts trio—Antionette, Catherine and Frances; song, Dorothy Anne Smith; quartet, Henrietta Reid, Julia Leonard, Jane Cowart and Dorothy Anne Smith; song and dance, Jane Smith; tap dance, Betty Battle.

Sale of polo buttons and dance tickets was resumed in the lobbies of Atlanta hotels yesterday under arrangements made by Mrs. Ben S. Purse and Mrs. Alva McCrary. Plans for resuming sales of buttons on the street by the Girls' State Military Band and the Salvation Army are being held up pending more favorable weather.

Four Dances.
Tickets to the dances Tuesday night at $1 per couple will entitle couples to enter all four parties on one ticket. Dances are planned for the Henry Grady hotel, with Coleman Saks and his famous CBS orchestra; the Ansley hotel, with Harry Hearn and his orchestra; the Biltmore hotel, with Eddie Holtz and his famous NBC orchestra; and the Shrine Mosque, with Lawrence Walker "Colored King of Swing" and his Top-Hatters from New York.

COURT GRANTS SENATOR RACE PHONE SERVICE

Watch Out—Or Blue Sparks Will Fly Again!

Constitution Staff Photo—H. J. Slayton.

Hubert Shaner, left, and Pat Cooper, attractive attaches of the polio drive headquarters, demonstrate the chary attitude toward touching anything which the whole staff has adopted since sparks—long blue sparks—and shocks as well, turned up mysteriously in the offices.

Shoes Scuff Carpet --- Carpet Spits Sparks --- Polio Staff Girls Shocked

Here's Reason for Squeals at Birthday Drive Office; High Heels' Friction Draws Static Current From Air During Recent Cold Wave.

It's done, it seems, not with mirrors, but with carpets.

The static, we mean.

Anyway, that's how the sparks, and shocks, happen.

Well, it seems—where were we? (These scientific stories are sure tough to handle, and in this case, hot.)

The facts are that the girls up at the Henry Grady hotel headquarters for the polio drive are getting so they're afraid to touch anything.

Blue Sparks
When a dainty finger goes out and comes in contact with a radiator, a telephone, an electric fixture, or even touches another finger or hand, a distinct spark is seen, blue in color and seemingly a couple of inches long. And with it is delivered a grade A tingle, or shock.

Amateur followers of strange phenomena yesterday when into action on the mystery and found out what caused it all.

COURT STAYS ORDER AGAINST PIPE LINE

Appellate Ruling Temporarily Sets Aside Ruling by Akerman.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—(P)—A lower court order directing the Southeastern Pipeline Company to remove its pipeline from beneath the tracks of the Seaboard Air Line railway near Bainbridge, Ga., by tomorrow was stayed here today by the federal appellate court.

The appellate order was signed by Judge Samuel H. Sibley and temporarily set aside the decision of Judge Alexander Akerman at Orlando, Fla., pending appeal.

The railroad contended the company had no right to lay its line under the railroad right-of-way while the pipeline company claimed the railway held rights only to the surface right-of-way while it was granted an easement by the landowners to subsoil rights.

The appellate court instructed the pipeline company to post a $10,000 bond and that during pendency of the appeal the pipeline should not be used.

It also ordered that if the railroad were aggrieved by this order it might upon notice to the pipeline company ask that the stay order be vacated.

The company said it was a public utility serving Georgia points from Port St. Joe, Fla.

CHILDREN TO SHARE SANDERS ESTATE

Consent Verdict Decrees Equal Division of $230,000.

Three sons and a daughter of the late Lucien B. Sanders Sr., prominent Atlanta lumber dealer who died in 1922, will receive equal shares in a $230,000 estate under terms of a consent verdict and judgment taken in Fulton Superior Court yesterday.

The court order was signed by Judge Virgil B. Moore.

The estate, which consists of cash and securities, will give $57,577 each to Dickinson H. Sanders, Roger Q. Sanders, Lucien B. Sanders Jr. and Mrs. Julia Sanders Riley.

In compliance with terms of the will, half of Mrs. Riley's share will be held in a trust fund until June 17, 1942, when she becomes 35 years of age.

The distribution was ordered under terms of a state Supreme Court ruling which twice had the case before it.

The suit was brought by the children against the Trust National Bank, executors of the will, for a construction of that portion of the will which directed that the heirs reach a certain age before being eligible to share in the estate.

AVOIDS DIRECT REPLY ON DETENTION OF UNITY

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(P)—Home Secretary Sir John Anderson avoided a direct answer in the house of commons today to a question whether Unity Freeman-Hartford, Adolf Hitler's friend, would be placed under detention because of "recent hostile associations."

Sir John said merely that it was his duty to consider all facts in the case of the blond English girl who returned from Germany January 3 on a stretcher. London newspapers said she was in a nursing home preparatory to having a bullet removed from her neck.

FARM HEADS SPLIT ON TRADE PACTS

National Grange Master Flays Hull Program; Federation Chief Defends It.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(P)—The master of the National Grange told congressmen today that the reciprocal trade program had hurt agriculture, although previously the president of the American Farm Bureau Federation had asserted the program had benefited farmers.

L. J. Taber, master of the Grange, warned the house ways and means committee that if the act is extended for three more years, it will necessitate another billion dollars for farm relief.

"After experimenting with trade pacts for six years," Taber declared, "American farm prices are 22 per cent below par."

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau Federation, declared that the trade pacts had encouraged farm exports as well as increasing domestic sales.

Polio Foundation Patients Aiding Birthday Fund Drive

By EDWARD STOUT

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Jan. 25.

Shrunken limbs and withered muscles are not keeping infantile paralysis victims at the hospital here from doing their bit toward the celebration of President Roosevelt's birthday. Although patients are not many other participants, they will have a special entertainment and are raising funds to combat the horror which they themselves, through experience, have come to dread so much.

On crutches and in wheel chairs, they are managing to reach a contribution container which they have placed in Georgia Hall. Patients and Foundation employees alike are keenly interested in the drive.

Enthusiasm High
Not only at the Warm Springs Foundation, but throughout all of Meriwether county, the forthcoming celebration of the President's birthday is being planned amid vaulting public enthusiasm.

Spirited citizens explain this by pointing out that here in Mr. Roosevelt's "second home" is located the nucleus for the entire crusade against infantile paralysis.

Besides claiming the national record for enthusiasm, the Meriwether anti-polio committee also is vying for the inconsistency award. A "house circus" and a "male beauty show" have been scheduled as a part of the entertainment.

"House Circus" Idea
Credit for the "house circus" idea goes to the Warm Springs Junior Chamber of Commerce. The group engaged a retired showman living nearby to perform with his rodent menagerie and thereby handle their portion of the local drive.

Under the direction of the county co-chairmen, Mrs. A. M. Hill, president of the Georgia Federation of Woman's Clubs, and G. C. Thompson, prominent Manchester attorney, preparations for numerous entertainments and events are being completed. Individual celebrations are being planned for various communities with the Roosevelt dance to be held in Greenville Monday night.

The variety of events, Co-chairman Thompson explains, is to carry the celebration to a greater number of people. Other officials of the drive in Meriwether are Hoke S. Peters, treasurer, and Mrs. R. L. Trazier, secretary, both of Manchester.

Sorry to keep you waiting, but someone was telling me about that important announcement that's gonna be in Sunday's Atlanta Constitution
